

SCHOOL BOARD FORCES SOME RESIGNATIONS.

Many Changes Will Be Made in the Department
at the Meeting This Evening.

The new Board of Education will meet tonight and the result of its new broom will be made manifest in a number of changes in the personnel of the teaching force of the city schools.

Some of these changes are the result of resignations which have been asked by the new organization and some are voluntary for various reasons, principally those of matrimony on the part of several of the best known teachers in the department.

BOARD DETERMINED

The Board of Education has taken hold of this matter in a manner which impressed the employees of the department with the fact that they meant business. They have been influenced they allege only in the minimum by outside pressure. They considered the availability of applicants as against certain individuals in the department and when changes were deemed advisable, those changes were decided upon.

This determination was especially true of the High Street Committee following the precedent it had established in bringing to a close the principalship of J. B. McCleskey of that institution.

The committee informed Vice Principal Meade that he would not be informed as to any changes which they proposed to make and furthermore that his opinion as to the advisability of any changes would not be asked neither would he be asked for a recommendation. The committee however declared that they would be conservative in their acts and there is little doubt that they have kept their word.

BUTCHERS WIN SOME DEMANDS.

In several of the butcher shops of Oakland and Alameda today the proprietors refused to sign the demands submitted by the butchers and to display union cards. The result being that there were walkouts in each of those places. The butchers, however, succeeded in securing the signatures of most of the proprietors and they feel that they have won a signal victory. Secretary Douglas of the Butchers' Union stated that he hoped to see everything settled by Monday.

The trouble between outchits and employers began last week, when shorter hours and an increase in wages were demanded, but all attempts to reach an agreement failed and the union decided to strike.

Last evening the Butchers' Union held a meeting and decided to give the bosses only until noon today to sign and hang the union card. Fred Becker, the largest butcher on this side of the bay, was one of the first to give in. When the demands of the men were presented to him this morning he took the matter under advisement but at 9 o'clock his signature was placed upon the agreement and in each of his three large shops the union card was displayed.

I could not help myself, said Becker later. I had a large amount of meat on hand and another large quantity being cured and it all had to be handled. It would have meant from $15,000 to $20,000 and I had no alternative but to accede to their demands.

Coolley & others followed Becker's example and Henry Stebbins did the same, not however until after he had taken until 11 o'clock to consider the matter.

The two principal shops in Oakland where walkouts occurred were Newhall & Buglin's Eureka Market.

In Alameda the proprietors of almost all the shops, led by Combs & Fisher, Ansell Hays, Sanford Brothers and Noves refused to sign and their men walked out. The Alameda men had an additional grievance in that the bosses persisted in handling sheep slaughtered by Slater whose men at the Stockyards walked out Thursday.

At the Stockyards John Stewart signed the agreement early this morning and representatives of the Butchers' Union are this afternoon conferring with representatives of Grayson & Owens and the Oakland Meat Company. If the latter do not agree to the terms there will be a strike in their slaughter houses.

It was claimed by Secretary Douglas that the reason a number of the small shops had not been unionized was that the slaughterers had threatened not to furnish meat to union shops.

The employing butchers have organized with the following officers: Thomas Hann, president; M. V. Schick, vice-president; George Rothamel, secretary; H. W. Garner, financial secretary and treasurer.

It was rumored among the butchers this afternoon that the wholesale men of the Stockyards were attempting to form a combination to beat the strikers. It was claimed by the butchers that if such a combination were effected it would result in a general walk out at the stockyards in both San Francisco and Oakland.

The employers who were today compelled to unionize their shops however say that the men are afraid of the big wholesale men and say that the walkout should have occurred today if the men were acting in good faith.

OUT ON STRIKE

Late this afternoon the managers of the Oakland Meat Company refused to sign the agreement and a dozen men, consisting of drivers and slaughterers, walked out.

SPANISH TEACHER GOES

The most radical change in the High School is that of the enforced retirement of Professor Pablo Sanchez who has been teacher of Spanish in the school for some time and who resides in Berkeley. His successor at this time is unknown.

Miss A. W. Brewer it was at first rumored was going to tender her resignation because of her intended long absence abroad. Then it was stated that she would ask for a leave of absence for a year the same as has been granted to others and it is this proposition which will come before the board tonight. While abroad Miss Brewer will enjoy an extended vacation and at the same time study for her own improvement and collect facts on certain subjects for friends in this city.

MORE MATRIMONY

Miss C. M. Cushing also of the High School will ask to be excused from further attendance upon its classes because she has decided to enter the marriage state.

Miss K. D. Anderson of the Harrison school is another teacher whose name at her own request will be dropped from the roll of teachers because she has made up her mind to hereafter reside over a home.

TOMPKINS CHANGE

TRUE CONDITION OF MRS. M'KINLEY

Physicians Hold a Long Consultation and Issue a Long Bulletin.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Mrs. McKinley's physicians were in consultation about two hours today and subsequently a very long statement of the true character of the illness from which she has been suffering was issued. The statement has been promised from time to time and while in San Francisco it was said the statement would be a full and complete one of the nature of Mrs. McKinley's illness given to the public. But for the reason of an after it has been withheld up to the present time. The bulletin is as follows:

Mrs. McKinley's illness has been a blood infection resulting from peritonitis of the index finger (bone ulcer) which began in Los Angeles and which was promptly treated by incision. The subsequent condition of the patient was due to the same blood infection with a complication. She improved, however, and was brought here in comfort and with out loss of strength. Her principal cause of anxiety in her case since her arrival in Washington has been acute constipation (inflammation of the lining membrane of the bowels) which has been the result of the same blood infection. The statement that Mrs. McKinley's case at this time presents a more hopeful aspect is the best word that has come from the sick room since the arrival of the distinguished patient in Washington. The patient feels considerably better and today Mrs. McKinley's birthday and many beautiful flowers and gifts were left at the White House for her.

The screams of the attendant attracted the attention of other attendants and the child was finally wrapped in blankets till the flames were smothered but not until after the little one had been horribly burned.

Doctors O. D. Hamlin of Oakland, and J. N. Rowell and T. F. Lastman of Berkeley were hastily summoned and they worked with the child all night trying to allay the pain but their efforts were of little avail for some time and for hours the child lay in an agony.

EXERCISES AT HIGH SCHOOL.

Ex-Principal J. B. McChesney Says Farewell to the Old School.

TELLS SOME STORIES OF THE OLD DAYS.

Graduates Receive Their Diplomas and Are Pleased With Their Success.

The commencement exercises at the Oakland High School last evening were most interesting. The auditorium was crowded to the doors.

The exercises were opened with a duet, "Oh, That We Two Were Maying," by Lowell Redfield and Miss Bertha Bouterous.

Rev. E. E. Baker then delivered an address. Lowell Redfield sang the "Rat Song."

Ex-Principal J. B. McChesney said farewell to the school and the scholars. He spoke in part as follows:

"But it is impossible for me, on this occasion, to give in detail the history of the High School. I have been thus far specific because the beginnings of institutions which have become prominent are always of interest. Suffice it to say that as Oakland increased in population the school grew in numbers so that in a little time it enjoyed the distinction of being the largest high school west of the Rocky Mountains; more than that, it had a reputation which attracted people to Oakland, and in time a large number of families came to acquire homes that they might avail themselves of the educational privileges of the city.

"I confess that it is with no little pride that I look over these lists of graduates. As I see the name on the written page with others of the class, the personality of the individual is brought before me. I see the young, eager face and hear the voice in recitation. I live again the days of twenty and thirty years ago. But then the thought comes, 'Where are all these now? Were those days of toil and self-denial for naught? No; for a second thought brings to mind where many of them are now. I find them as judges in supreme and superior courts; some have gained fame and wealth in the practice of law; others a wide reputation as physicians and surgeons; colleges and universities have placed them in their faculties; many are teachers in the public schools of this city; not a few have been successful as civil and mining engineers; the bank, the counter, the farm, the stage, all have honored representatives of the Oakland High School."

At the conclusion of Mr. McChesney's speech Gus Ringolsky in behalf of the graduating class presented to the school a large picture of J. B. McChesney. The gift was accepted by Sidney Richardson amid the applause of the audience.

C. H. Redington, President of the Board of Education, then made the announcement of the graduates and presentation of the diplomas, after which the friends crowded about the members of the class to congratulate them on their achievement.

WORK ON THE NEW POSTOFFICE.

W. T. S. Hoyt, Superintendent of Construction for the new Postoffice building, arrived yesterday from Topeka, Kansas, where he has been supervising the construction of the Postoffice and Court House building of that city. He will secure headquarters near Seventeenth street and Broadway, the site of the new building, as soon as possible and be ready for the breaking of ground when Contractor A. E. Barrett begins the work. It is expected that ground will be broken about the 15th of the present month. Superintendent Hoyt was in Topeka for sixteen months and expect to remain in Oakland for two years, during the construction of the building.

"My duties," said Superintendent Hoyt today, "will be to represent Supervising Architect Taylor in seeing that the contractor fully complies with the requirements of the specifications. I have been in Oakland so short a time, however, that I have not had time to study the specifications nor to more than take a hurried look at the drawings. From what I have seen of the drawings I think they are very good. In fact, they are the best I have seen for a public building of that size. The accommodations of the interior are good and the plans give excellent light and ventilation. Architecturally the building will be very fine and one of the best that the department has turned out. One objection I find, however, is the size of the site. So size a building should be placed upon a site where it could be seen to better advantage."

"What little I have seen of Oakland has pleased me and I think the business blocks are ahead of the average city of this size. I have not, however, had an opportunity to see the public buildings. Superintendent Hoyt is an architect of recognized standing in the East, and for the last five years he has been connected with the Treasury Department of the United States Government. Besides superintending the construction of the Topeka Postoffice and Court House, he supervised the building of the Postoffice of Milwaukee, Ark., and Brockton, Mass. He is a native of Pennsylvania, and before entering the Treasury Department had a long experience as an architect in his native State. He will be the only Government representative in Oakland besides an occasional traveling inspector. He will also be the custodian of the site, a position filled by Postmaster Friend until his arrival.

THE TEACHERS MUST WAIT.

The prospect of the teachers in the High and Central Schools getting their May and June salaries before going off on their vacation is not at all bright. It may be said to be gloomy to blackness. It all comes from the refusal of the Auditor to approve the water bills ordered paid by the Board of Public Works pursuant to instructions from the Council. This ties up the money in the treasury and prevents an available transfer of funds to the School Department next Monday night.

The trouble might have been obviated had the Auditor filed his answer in the mandamus suit brought against him by the Water Company today, with a request that the case be heard immediately. In this way a decision could have been had in time for the Council to act Monday night. But the writ was made returnable on June 17th, and the Auditor has not filed his answer as yet. He shows no disposition to expedite a hearing, and it is not unlikely that the teachers will not get their money for some weeks yet. That means that they will have to take their vacation without their pay, which will be quite a hardship to some of them. Members of the Council have been importuned about the matter, but they pass the matter up to the Auditor. But it's rough on the teachers just the same.

CREMATION.
The Odd Fellows' Cemetery, San Francisco. It has expended nearly $200,000 on building, plant and grounds. Has eye for faces. A body is consumed without contact with flame. Every part reduced to ashes by intense heat.

It has no stock nor stockholders. It does not divide profits. It aims to make its receipts equal its expenses. All profits are expended on the care of its property and the perfection of its works.

Priests for cremation are: Infants under ten, $10; ten to fifteen, $15; members of societies and associations and their families, $20; all others, $35, which price includes a copper receptacle for the ashes, and the use of the chapel and organist.

As soon as business permits, charges will be reduced. A proposition to lower the cost of cremation to $20 is under consideration. A special arrangement is now nearly perfected so that a body sent from any place in the State of California will be cremated at a total expense not to exceed the above rates.

And all this is NOT FOR THE ACCUMULATION OF PROFIT, but in the promotion of funeral reform and for the benefit of the widow and orphan. If necessary for the cause, we will place agents in Oakland, Alameda and San Jose, to carry on our work.

What is Ovaritis?

A dull, throbbing pain, accompanied by a sense of tenderness and heat low down in the side, with an occasional shooting pain, indicates inflammation. On examination it will be found that the region of pain shows some swelling. This is the first stage of ovaritis, inflammation of the ovary. If the root of your house leaks, my sister, you have it fixed at once; why not pay the same respect to your own body?

You need not, you ought not to let yourself go, when one of your own sex

CENTERVILLE MAN DIES AS RESULT OF BULLET WOUND.

John Rogers Soares, the Centerville farmer who, in January of last year was shot down in front of the Angelus home, died yesterday at the French Hospital in San Francisco. The attending physicians say that his death was due to the wound he received more than a year ago.

The identity of Soares' assailant has never been learned. Immediately after the shooting Soares in a dying statement said that it was Minnie Angelus who had fired the shot. The brother, Joseph Angelus, however, declared that it was he who had shot Soares. He said he had dressed himself in his sister's clothes and had shot Soares to avenge an insult offered to his sister Minnie.

BROAD GAUGE ENGINE BROKEN.

The Accident Occurred Early Yesterday Morning in the Encinal City.

ALAMEDA, June 7.—This morning Engine No. 12 met with an accident at the broad gauge depot. Had it been going at full speed it would probably have wrecked the train. While crossing the street car tracks at Park street a sudden heavy jolt caused by a low joint where the tracks crossed the back spring hung on the engine. This jolt, the right side of the rear end of the engine down on the cross pieces, while the spring jammed onto the drive wheels. No further damage was done, as the engine, which was slowing down, was easily stopped. Amended engine was telegraphed for and was seen on the scene. The accident caused the delay of several trains. The cause of the break was due to the crystallization of the steel on the hanger.

AMERICAN KINGS MEET THE MAYOR.

Good Feeling Between Our Financiers and London Business Officials.

LONDON, June 7.—The Lord Mayor, Frank Green, and the Sheriff received the delegates of the New York Chamber of Commerce at the Mansion House today. About twenty of the delegates were presented to the Lord Mayor and were shown over the Mansion House. A number of members of the London Chamber of Commerce, including Lord Brassey and Sir Albert K. Rollit, were present.

The Lord Mayor addressed the Americans, thanking them in the warmest terms for their visit and declaring that nothing could have done more to promote a perfect understanding and unity between the two greatest nations of the world. He alluded to Morris K. Jessup's reference in his speech at the banquet Wednesday to the impossibility of jealous rivalry existing between the United States and Great Britain as one of the true things ever said.

Lord Brassey spoke in a similar strain.

Mr. Jessup, in replying, said: "Your kindness has captivated our hearts. We are not worthy of it."

Lord Brassey, in which some of the Americans joined, followed Mr. Jessup's remarks.

Mr. Jessup then referred to his fellow delegates as "children of the great country," and concluded with expressions of fervent thanks for their reception.

The Lord Mayor then proposed the healths of King Edward and President McKinley, coupling with the latter a heartfelt wish for Mrs. McKinley's recovery.

Andrew Carnegie was the center of attraction throughout. After the ceremonies the Lord Mayor went up to him and said he especially wanted to shake hands with Mr. Carnegie, who said:

"In New York, in my young and poor days, when I read about Dick Whittington, I little thought I should stand here shaking the Lord Mayor's hand."

The Lord Mayor replied:

"We read nothing else today but of Mr. Carnegie's splendid gifts, and in the name of the English people, I want to thank you for your unexampled generosity."

The delegates were then entertained at informal luncheon, in Salter's, by the London Chamber of Commerce.

STILL A MYSTERY.

The Life Story of a Bright Montana Girl.

As Told in a Letter That Will Be of Interest to Every Woman Reader of this Paper.

"It happened about five years ago and is still a mystery," says Miss Mary Smith of Florence, Ravalli county, Montana, in a letter recently published by the St. Paul Pioneer Press, which follows. She referred to an illness which had no apparent cause, and which left her in that pale, emaciated condition which doctors call anæmia. Her letter, which will interest every woman, continues:

"I grew worse until I was completely run down. The least exertion, such as walking up stairs, would bring on an agonizing pain in the pit of my stomach. At other times I would suffer from a terrible pain in my head, something like neuralgia. I was troubled with shortness of breath and there was a smothering sensation about my heart which would beat heavily, with fits of palpitation. I had a pale, bloodless appearance and my limbs always felt tired."

"For three years I was under the care of two doctors, neither of whom seemed to know the nature of my trouble. They treated me for dyspepsia, ulceration of the stomach, gastritis and neuralgia, but without good results. Finally I found a remedy which restored me to health and brought the color to my cheeks. Two years ago I saw an advertisement in a St. Paul paper of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I bought a box and began taking them. They helped me so much that I kept on with them until I had taken five boxes altogether and became well and strong again. I gained in flesh and they gave me a healthy color. I have great faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and take them every spring and fall as a blood medicine and for the general building up of my system."

"I have recommended these pills to many people who were suffering much as I was, and they have all been benefited. My younger sister, whose skin is pale and transparent, is now taking them to restore her color."

"The disease from which Miss Smith suffered was anæmia, a bloodless condition which, if neglected, inevitably means certain death. It is one of the most common of blood diseases and the remedy which has conquered it may be trusted to cure other disorders that have their seat in the blood. If the blood is impoverished the nerves cannot receive their proper nourishment. This was the cause of the nervous pains of which Miss Smith writes. All the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves are contained in a condensed form in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They are an unfailing specific for all such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of the grip, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, and all forms of weakness either in male or female. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the hundred) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y."

MRS. MCKINLEY ABOUT HOLDING HER OWN.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Mrs. McKinley's physicians were in consultation over a hour this forenoon, and at 1:45 o'clock the following statement was issued:

"Mrs. McKinley's physicians state her condition is about the same as reported yesterday. There has been no material change in the past twenty-four hours."

The examination of Mrs. McKinley's blood, which has been made under the direction of the attending physicians, showed negative results, there being no evidence of blood poisoning. That is only one of the various examinations that are being made by the physicians to determine the character of the illness of Mrs. McKinley. The blood was taken from her arm last Tuesday.

LIBRARY AT FRUITVALE WILL BE A SUCCESS.

FRUITVALE, June 7.—Mrs. W. W. Judson and children have gone to Pacific Grove for several months.

Ed Curtis went to his father's ranch in the Santa Cruz mountains yesterday to spend the summer.

Yesterday A. F. Shulte went to Sacramento on business.

It looks as if the new circulating library will be a success; several new members have been added to the list. The directors are now arranging to secure some more new books. All who do not belong should join at once. The library will soon be flourishing and it will present a fine opportunity to secure good books at a very reasonable rate.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—With the mention in this correspondence last week of the certainty that California is to be favored with a foreign mission has come a tightening of all the wires that are being pulled by the aspiring candidates, and the contest that is in progress is fast assuming that impetuous phase that has always been in evidence here, of cutting the ground from each other's feet and thereby running the risk that the State will lose the honor altogether. If the political elements will unite or even favor one man it is a sure thing he will get a portfolio, but in California it has always been a case of mixing oil with water whenever aught of that kind has been essayed.

General Barnes' boom is steadily growing now that he is making no bones of the fact that he would like such an appointment, and all the friends old and new of the veteran are hard at work pointing out the special qualifications he possesses for a foreign post. A powerful recruit in his interests is Secretary of State John Hay, for it has been learned that the ex-Ambassador to England has expressed the opinion that Barnes is as well equipped as any man in the country for a diplomatic post abroad. As President McKinley is known to rely a great deal upon Hay's judgment and during his visit here expressed in the course of a private conversation his belief that Hay was the peer of any diplomat in the world, General Barnes can be congratulated upon having secured so powerful an ally.

The De Young end of the proposition is not being overlooked by any means, though. In fact, the proprietor of the Chronicle is more of a central figure than ever in politics just now. The association of his name with the Mayor-ality of San Francisco was at first received with but little serious attention, for it was not thought that he would consider the place, but as events are developing it looks as if there may be a good deal to all the talk. It is at least significant that he has not denied either officially or by insinuation in the columns of the Chronicle his prospective candidacy, for it is figured that if he were not disposed to entertain the proposition at all he would give it a quietus at the onset before any possible complications might arise affecting his other political complications.

It is by no means improbable anyhow that De Young would not object to being Mayor of the city with which his career has been woven. No better answer could ever be given to those who oppose his Senatorial hopes with statements affecting his local reputation than to point to his election to the chief place of municipal honor by the citizens of that very community, and such a happening would most assuredly furnish several stepping-stones to the goal at Washington that he hopes to reach some day. As to his success at the polls, that is scarcely in doubt, for his executive ability and local patriotism are well recognized, and as Phelan is being boomed for a third term, the fight would be all the easier, for the present Mayor has enough enemies in the ranks of his own party to beat him from start to finish.

Of course, if De Young should run for Mayor, that will remove him from the foreign mission sphere and clear the way so completely for Barnes that the doubtful general would surely get the place. Senator Chester Rowell of Fresno thinks otherwise, though, for during the past week he has been telling his friends that no matter what may be said to the contrary, he is right in line for the Japanese mission and is going to get it. His chief, in fact, his only reliance is Senator Bard, and strong though this pull may be in some ways, it looks woefully weak in others. Should Senator Perkins join in the appeal for Rowell he would perhaps land all right, but even though opposition to the Fresno man may mean an unfriendly tilt with Bard, no one can conceive the idea of Perkins making a hurricane fight at the White House in the interests of the man from Fresno.

HOW BARD STANDS.
Conceding, therefore, that Bard will have to bear the brunt of Rowell's fight, the question of what his influence amounts to becomes interesting in view of recent developments. When the President was in California those who conversed with him noted how often he referred to Senator Perkins as an able man and a splendid representative of the people and how little he spoke of Bard. This led to some investigation, and then the "milk in the cocoa" nut became readily apparent.

President McKinley's main hobby is the course followed by the Administration in the Philippines. He realized that he was both defying tradition and establishing a new precedent for the Nation, but he was satisfied that he was doing the right thing and he went ahead with all the energy and zeal he possesses. Now, unfortunately for Senator Bard, he entertained views on the subject that were diametrically opposed to those of the Administration, and when the Paris treaty came up in the Senate he voted against it and thereby arrayed himself against the President. It was a declaration of independence and individuality, of course, and Bard gets whatever credits come from such scores, but politically speaking it was a disaster as far as he was personally concerned, for McKinley naturally does not feel any too kindly towards those members of his own party who opposed him upon so momentous an occasion. As between Bard and Perkins, therefore, it is an open secret as to which way the President leans, and pursuing the same lines, it is not likely that McKinley would go out of his way to befriend Bard by sending Rowell to Japan. The same issue, too, will arise in all those instances where the two California Senators differ as regards patronage, for Perkins will not get the worst of it when the fates of any of his men are hanging in the balance. In this connection it may be said that despite the belief that Bard's opposition to John Lynch would be appeased, he has started up a new fight against the Collector and is apparently hopeful of being able to down him for a second term. Those who have got the situation intelligently sized up, though, are satisfied that Lynch is safe, for although the anvil chorus is being played down South as well as in those parts of the State where the Spreckels influence is paramount, Perkins has determined to make the Collector's fight a special one and will not concede an inch of ground regarding him. With the Alameda Senator standing flat footed on the proposition, the opposing elements are wasting their time, for as no reasons other than purely personal ones can be advanced for Lynch's retirement, Perkins does not propose to have his own political fences torn down in that way, especially as the animus against Lynch is simply and solely because he is a Burns' man.

COL. BURNS' RETURN.
Mention of Col. Burns brings to mind that he has started for San Francisco and will be here on the 22nd—a week from next Saturday. His coming is looked forward to with considerable interest, for he will undoubtedly take an active part in the framing of the political program as soon as he becomes familiar with the changes that have occurred during his absence.

The Examiner's effort to make it appear that Burns and the Governor are no longer on good terms cannot be entertained, for the basis upon which the assertion is founded is very weak. It may be true that some of the recent gubernatorial appointments cannot be classified as over friendly to the Burns' interests, but the fact must not be overlooked that it is the Governor's policy at this time to conciliate all factions of the party and he cannot, therefore, dispense all his patronage to one wing of it. That the Burns men have not been left out in the cold, though, can be seen by a glance over the appointments during the present administration, for the Governor has distributed many of his choicest plums in that direction.

Then again Governor Gage would not be very likely to antagonize Colonel Burns if he could help it for no matter what may be said to the contrary the Burns' people control a big percentage of the State machinery. This was evidenced at the legislative elections a year ago for although they came right upon the heels of the bitter personal fight made upon the Colonel, by certain newspapers, representatives who were admittedly his representatives in politics were elected to both Senate and Assembly from many parts of the State. The Governor would certainly therefore be desirous of holding on to so powerful and so friendly an ally, so a large quantity of salt can be taken with the yarns that have been circulated regarding a split at headquarters.

AFTER SCOTT AGAIN.
Senator Davis, of Amador, has been in town during the week endeavoring, it is said, to induce Scott to openly get into the Senatorial fight again. He thinks that the Presidential flavor that has been given to Scott's affairs by the recent visit of McKinley will help the shipbuilder's candidacy along, and incidentally his own hopes and ambitions for if by any chance Scott should land the toga Davis would of course be very close to the throne.

It is not considered likely, however, that Scott will get into the fight for in the first place he does not like the idea of running against Perkins and secondly he still has a bad taste in his mouth as a result of his experiences in Sacramento during the extra session. Davis will, in consequence have to build his hopes elsewhere and the Amador Senator is worrying just now as to how he is going to land next year. His return to the State Senate is said to be out of the question, for Frank Solinsky is in the field for the nomination and it looks as if he will capture it almost without effort. The determination of the Burns' people to get even with Davis for the part he played in the Colonel's campaign will shut him out of the convention, for the Republican machine is in good working order in that part of the State and Davis cannot control even one end of it.

He is looking further afield though than the Senatorship. At one time he considered himself an available candidate for Governor, but he has awakened from that particular dream and has gone into a new trance as regards Congress. The First District is in an unusual condition now for the reapportionment bill has left it without a Congressman, Frank Coombs who represented it under the old lines being switched into the second. Davis therefore thinks that he can mould matters so that he can carry off the Congressional nomination but he has got a merry task ahead, for the same influences that are blocking his path back to the State Senate are being exercised to keep him from Washington. The result of this anti-Davis movement will be to give Ex-Senator Gillette of Humboldt a good opportunity to carry out his original Congressional plans for although Gillette does not stand any too well with the machine he would nevertheless secure its support if it came to an issue between him and Davis. Altogether therefore it looks as if politics will be extensively lively in the northern end of the State when the battle starts up a few months hence.

HEITMANN IN LUCK.
Ex-Councilman W. D. Heitmann of Oakland landed all right this week in his promised place in the Chinese Bureau. Thanks to Collector Stratton and Senator Perkins. His appointment also gave an opportunity to promote Hugh Dolan of Alameda and Eugene Lynch, so Alameda county has been faring well of late in the Federal service. Collector Stratton is certainly standing in loyalty for his home county for although the patronage at his disposal is extremely limited, owing to the Civil Service restrictions he has succeeded in placing quite a number of Alamedans upon the pay roll.

WHAT WILL BE COMMISSIONER?
What the Governor intends doing about the Building and Loan Commission is a problem that is causing considerable speculation just now for although Commissioner Gould's term expired last month nothing official has been done regarding his successor. The various candidates are therefore anxious as to what the outcome will be and very issue of a newspaper is eagerly scanned for there is no telling at what moment the appointment will be announced.

The report that was in circulation a few weeks ago stating that Speaker Pendleton will be the lucky man is no longer entertained for Pendleton denies that he is after the place and says that there was no authority whatever for associating his name with it. Jake Steppacher is discreetly silent when he is questioned as to what his prospects are while Secretary Fields of the Board who is seeking promotion to a Commissioner'ship, shakes his head mournfully when his friends speak to him on the subject. E. Myron Wolf is said to have a splendid chance to carry off the permission for his services on the stump during the last campaign entitle him to recognition in addition to which he is able to manipulate pulls in many directions and is working them now for all they are worth. Frank Marston was working around for the job for awhile but he has evidently got a good tip not to waste any more time on the matter for he has drawn in his horns during the last few days and is letting some one else do the hustling.

PATCHES.
Why Brown Ones Come on Faces.
When a woman can get rid of brown patches on her face by changing her diet it is worth while for other women who care for their complexions to know something of the method.

A lady in Michigan City, Ind., who does not want her name mentioned, says that coffee caused the brown patches on her face by first giving her stomach trouble, then putting her nerves out of order, and the result was shown in her complexion.

She quite coffee and began using Postum Food Coffee and in less than a month the stomach trouble disappeared and within two months her complexion cleared up and is now fine and rosy.

She speaks of a Mr. Knight and Gideon Hunt, of Westfield, Ind., who have both been improved in health by leaving off coffee, also a Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Stanley, of the same place, who were in poor health and suffered from stomach trouble. They quit coffee and after using Postum a short time the result was natural sleep, a return of appetite, and a gain in strength as fast as nature will rebuild.

She gives the names of a number of other persons who have been helped by leaving off coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee.

FUNERAL OF COL. MICHLER.

Very Large and Distinguished Attendance at St. John's Church, Washington.

TEMPORARY INTERMENT IN ARLINGTON CEMETERY.

Tender Tribute to a Gallant Soldier by Lieutenant-General Miles.

The telegraph of a few days ago brought the sad tidings of the untimely death in Washington of Lieutenant Colonel Michler, military secretary to Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A. The information caused a great deal of pain to many friends of the deceased, who had resided for some years at the Presidio, because of his untimely demise and because, also, of the sorrow which it was known his death would occasion Mrs. S. H. Michler, the mother of the deceased, who is still and has been for many years a resident of Oakland.

THE FUNERAL.
The funeral of the deceased took place in Washington several days ago, and in recording and commenting upon the fact the "Star" of that city spoke as follows: "Funeral services over the body of the late Lieutenant Colonel Francis Michler, U. S. A., military secretary to the Lieutenant General of the army, were conducted this morning by Rev. Dr. Alexander Mackay Smith in St. John's Church."

"The popularity in which the dead officer was held by those in the military service of the Government and the esteem felt for him in private life were attested by the distinguished gathering that assembled in the venerable edifice."

"They were illustrated also in the numerous and exquisite floral offerings. The remains, in a steel covered casket, covered with a magnificent wreath of ivy leaves and purple orchids and another immense wreath of lilies of the valley and red roses, were brought to the church on a flag-draped caisson of the Second artillery, with a detachment of eight non-commissioned officers on foot, bearing the casket. The remainder of Battery F of the artillery was drawn up on Vermont avenue, and Troop H of the Eleventh Cavalry ranged in line along H street."

THE SERVICES.
"During the impressive services the men's choir sang 'Lead, Kindly Light,' and 'Abide With Me.' When the casket was borne upon a caisson in the presence of a bare-headed throng, after the services had been concluded, the sun momentarily shone out and flooded flags and flowers alike with brilliancy. At this moment the full United States Marine Band, under Lieutenant Samuel K. Hays, played 'Softly and Tenderly My God, to Thee.'"

"In accordance with the usual custom the late officer's horse, with boots reversed in the stirrups, followed the caisson to the cemetery."

LT. GEN. MILES A MOURNER.
"Among those who attended were Lieutenant General Miles, in full dress uniform; Mrs. Miles, their daughter, Mrs. Hays, and their young son. There was a representative presence of army officers and people prominent in society. The military attaches of the various embassies and legations at present in Washington also attended, and Lieutenant Colonel Kitchin of the Fifth Engineer, the scarlet uniform of an English officer. The body was escorted to Arlington by the military bodies named, headed by the Marine Band, and was there placed in a vault pending the arrival of the dead officer's brother from Europe. Final interment will probably be made in a plot near the grave of General Crook, the famous Indian fighter, with whom Colonel Michler served with distinction in several campaigns."

PALL-BEARERS.
"The pall-bearers were Gen. William S. Worth, Col. W. P. Hall, Assistant Adjutant General, Lieut. Col. Otto J. Hein, Commandant, United States Military Academy; Lieut. Col. H. H. Whitney, aid de camp; Lieut. Col. H. H. Bailey, aid de camp; Major Charles McCawley, U. S. M. C.; Col. Thomas Ward, Assistant Adjutant General, and Col. Sam Reber."

"The military order of the Loyal Legion was represented officially by Colonel Norvell, Major Louis, Major Holt and Lieutenant Deale and a large number of the members."

MILES' TRIBUTE.
"In speaking of the death of Lieutenant Colonel Michler, Lieutenant General Miles said this morning: 'He was one of the finest officers in the service, and his loss will affect the entire army. He was a soldier and a gentleman and there is nothing good that I could not honestly say about him. He had been my aide and military secretary for many years, and he daily showed his splendid efficiency. His talents were not confined to office work, however, as he had an enviable military record. He showed his bravery as an Indian fighter, and was twice commended for gallantry in action. He came of a family of fighters, his father, General Michler, being a renowned officer in the Engineer Corps.'"

"He had only been married about a year, and the sympathy of the whole War Department is with his young wife. She was Miss Marion Lowry, and is today little more than a bride. Colonel Michler has been suffering from Bright's disease for many years, but bore up bravely and never complained. He was a model army officer, and I cannot tell you how deeply his loss affects me. We were always warm personal friends.'"

PROPERTY DISPUTE IS SETTLED IN COURT.

The sum of $100 is to be paid to his attorneys, J. E. McElrath and J. F. Street. Mrs. Kraft is also to receive $130.45 from the son's estate. ## ESTATES IN THE PROBATE COURT.

Petitions Filed and Orders Made By Judges of the Superior Court.

The first annual account of Mary A. Kane and Elizabeth G. Buckley as executrices of the estate of Michael Kane, deceased, shows $22,478.51 received and $10,485.28 expended, leaving a balance of $11,993.23.

Mamie De War has filed notice that on June 12th she will, through her attorney, move the court for an order requiring the executor of the estate of Mary Martin, deceased, to file a final account. The motion will be made on the ground that more than a year has elapsed since letters of administration were granted and that no account has yet been filed.

Heien Connel has petitioned the Superior Court to distribute to her from the estate of John Connel, deceased, a bequest of $300.

Diedrich Wiegman, as guardian of the person and estate of Matthias Mohr, an insane person, has filed a petition to invest $4,000 belonging to his ward's estate.

In his petition Wiegman states that the income from the money at present is only $125 a year, while the expenses of maintaining his ward are about $230. May E. Kraft has been granted letters of administration on the estate of her deceased son, Henry A. Kraft. Henry C. Gregory, as guardian of the person and estate of George P. Hapch, an insane person, has been authorized to expend $80 a month for the support of Hapch's minor children, Ernest F. Hapch, G. Grace A. and George F. Hapch. Gregory has also been authorized to pay bills contracted subsequent to the death of Mrs. Hapch on March 15th. The estate is valued at about $17,000.

FISHED FOR FRUIT LANDED IN PRISON.

Charles Jackson of 714 Chester street and Raymond Welsh of 729 Center street, two boys, were arrested today by Policemen Murphy, Stahl and Layton, and were charged on the City Prison register with petit larceny. The lads are accused with fishing fruits out through the grated doors at Mr. Morris' fruit stand, 3706 Seventh street. The place was reported burglarized.

PLUNKETT COBBLEDICK.

Last Wednesday night, the marriage of Miss Frances Cobbledick and James A. Plunkett took place in the Eighth avenue Methodist Church. It was performed by the Rev. William Carson Shaw, pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Advent in East Oakland. The church was decorated in pink and green.

The bride is a beautiful brunette. She was attired in a gown of exquisite white satin, trimmed with pleatings of white chiffon. Embroidered chiffon formed the collar and ornaments of the corsage. The long tulle veil was held in place with orange blossoms and the bouquet was white roses. The only jewel worn by the bride was a beautiful pin of pearls and diamonds, the gift of the groom. Miss Emmeline Cobbledick, the bride's sister, was maid of honor, and was attired in pink organdie over pink satin and carried a bouquet of maidenhair fern. The bridesmaids, Miss Evelyn Le Noir and Miss Mabel Howland, each wore gowns of green organdie over green silk and carried La France roses.

M. W. McMennamin was best man, and the ushers were Walter H. Chohick, Augustus Kempke, Thomas Carpenter and William Gage. During the ceremony, Mrs. Minnie Kempke Henderson sang "Call Me Thine Own," and Miss Anna Parks rendered the march from "Lohengrin" while the bridal party entered the church and Mendelssohn's wedding march as they took their departure. The honeymoon will be spent in Lake county, after which Dr. Plunkett will bring his bride to the home he has prepared for her at 382 East Twelfth street.

NEW STARS WILL SOON SHINE.

Police Commissioners Will Soon Have Eight Positions To Fill.

HALL B. RAND NOT FORCED TO RETIRE.

Policemen Layton and Woods Will Be Next to Get the Ax.

Commenting on a false impression created through a report in a San Francisco paper to the effect that Policeman H. B. Rand was practically requested to file his application for retirement from the Police Department, Police Commissioner Johnson said this morning:

"There is absolutely no foundation for the report. The Commissioners have never discussed Rand's case further than that it was agreed that Mr. Rand was giving perfect satisfaction notwithstanding his age and that it was concluded not to disturb him in his position. Mr. Rand's request to be re-elected July 1st on half pay came wholly unsolicited."

As to other changes in the Police Department, the Commissioners are very silent just now. But rumor has it that by the time the Commissioners hold their first meeting in July there will be eight vacant places to fill.

Thos. Pardee, Wm. Kinley, Wm. Kingsbury have been dismissed; H. B. Rand retires; J. B. Langworthy has resigned; Wm. H. McCloud will be tried next week, and rumor is cruel enough to say that the other two to retire are Policemen Layton and Woods.

As to the latter two, however, no confirmation can be obtained from any of the Commissioners.

MACDONOUGH THEATER.

Next Thursday evening at the Macdonough Theater a vaudeville program will be rendered by the Miller Owen Vaudeville Company, composed of the well known talent in the vaudeville business, consisting of "Quotha," the male La Zole Fuchs, in his spectacular dance carnival, assisted by twenty young ladies. Among the others who will take part are the Kelsy sisters, the English character change artists, the Lasky sisters, impersonating musicians of different nations. Owen and Csekdean will be seen in their original burlesque, "The Barnstormer." Everette Mottley, the baritone; Madam Lesterjett, the mezzo soprano; H. Mansfield, the banjo and mandolin soloist, and the Kansasone Josephine, the dancer and her three wonderful pickaninies from the Sunny South, will sing their catchy songs "Close Them Dreamy Eyes" and "Mama's Chinese Twins." The performance will conclude with the latest moving colored pictures. Popular prices will prevail on this occasion, being 25 cents, 35 cents and 50 cents. Reserved seats can be obtained on Tuesday morning and thereafter up to the evening of the entertainment.

BOYS TO CAMP IN THE REDWOODS

The Y. M. C. A. Physical Class Going to the Santa Cruz Mountains.

The boys of the physical culture class of the Young Men's Christian Association will leave for their annual outing on the 15th instant. They will be accompanied by Professor John T. Myers, physical instructor of the Association, who will have entire charge of their deportment and direct their sports and diversions during the trip. In fact, Professor Myers will manage the whole affair. The party will number from sixty to seventy-five.

Decies, a beautiful spot in the Santa Cruz mountains, is the place selected for this summer's camp. There the boys will have abundant opportunities for bathing, boating and gambling in the woods. While they will be allowed full latitude to enjoy themselves in hearty boyish fashion, they will be under the watchful eye of Professor Myers, and under his wholesome guardianship will be kept free from contaminating influences.

These summer outings for the boys of the Y. M. C. A. are growing in popularity both with parents and children. The trips are inexpensive, the companionship congenial and the moral tone unexceptionable. Amid the scenes of nature the boys have a good time and return home brown and hearty and thoroughly invigorated after a season of active life in the open air. Last year Professor Myers took his class to the Blue Lakes, but this year will take them among the Coast redwoods, it being the idea to give added zest to the trips by changing the locality visited, so that the boys will have variety in scenes and surroundings. This enables the lads to see more and broaden their sympathies with nature. From now till the day of departure the youngsters booked for the excursion will be in a flutter of boyish excitement over the coming outing.

MASONS ARE VERY ACTIVE.

Oakland Commandery Has a Leader Who Will Work for the Order.

OAKLAND CHAPTER VERY PROSPEROUS.

Many Events of Interest Are Recorded in Masonic Circles.

The past week has been eventful in Masonic lines. In fact, the past year has been noted for abundant harvests in the Masonic field—in lodge, chapter, council and commandery.

Oakland Council No. 12, R. S. M., on Thursday week, conferred the Royal and Select Master's degrees upon a team of twenty companions of the Royal Arch; and after the labors of the evening, sat down to one of the choicest and most superb banquets ever given in the Temple, culminated by pungent addresses, recitations and song.

Oakland Commandery No. 11 Knights Templar, starts out on its knightly pilgrimage of the new year, under the command of that valiant knight, Sir John A. Britton, as commander, with encouraging prospects of a most prosperous administration. The past fiscal year have been nearly half a hundred Sir Knights, good and true, and admittance to its portals is sought by scores of novitiates.

Oakland Chapter No. 35, Royal Arch Masons, was never so prosperous, Wednesday evening a team of seekers for ancient discoveries explored the arches of the Temple with success.

Last evening, Live Oak Lodge No. 61, F. and A. M., the accredited best working lodge in the State, and one of the wealthiest, held its stated meeting at the Temple, with the usual number of petitioners whose applications were acted upon, which means work for the month. The lodge stands fifth in point of membership of the lodges of the State, and first in perfection of ritualistic work.

Oakland Lodge, No. 133, has a meeting for work this evening, with a large complement of first-class material which means a busy month.

Oakland is credited with the largest chapter of the Eastern Star in the United States—and financially in the lead—Oak Leaf, No. 8, with over 300 members. Meetings the first and third Thursdays in each month, at the Temple.

No Smallpox.

Joseph Sanfers, Superintendent of the Adult Blind Home says there is no smallpox in that institution.

DELMAS TALKS ABOUT TRUSTS.

Says That if the People Say They Must Go They Will Depart.

Attorney D. M. Delmas addressed the Economic League last evening in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium on "Trusts." The meeting was well attended and the speaker was frequently applauded.

The speaker opened his address by referring to the crisis this country passed through when the slavery question came up for determination. The paramount question at that time, he said, was: "Shall man be the slave of his fellow man?"

"This question demanded an answer," he continued. "It was the question of the country appealed to. It remained for the people to answer the question. Wasted fields, ruined homes and the terrible results of war told how the question was answered. After that slavery was no more."

"There is now another question to be answered. We are confronted with a similar danger that threatens our institutions and is sapping the very foundations of our Government. It is caused by the desire of a few to reap present advantages in preference to the lasting benefits of justice. As slavery was the paramount question about the middle of the century, so now is the present condition of unregulated and centralized capital. This casts into the shade all other questions of the present time. Already the Congress of the United States has twice expressed its fear of centralized capital by legislation against it. Already four-fifths of the States in the Union have passed laws condemning trusts. Assemblies of citizens are taking up the matter and denouncing them. All political parties have expressed their hostility to such aggregations of capital."

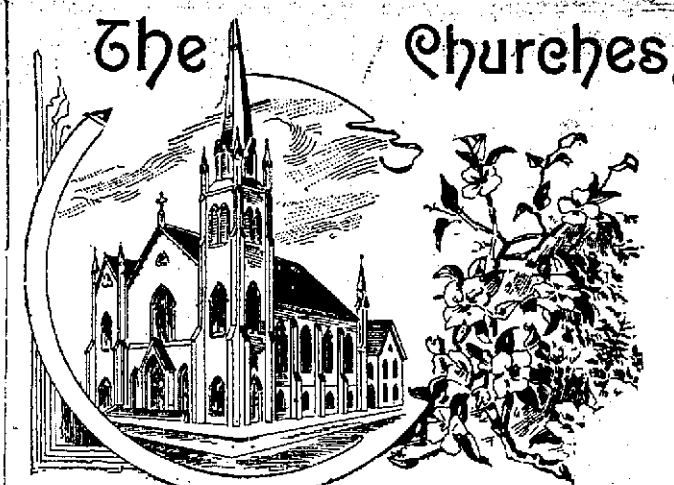

The meeting was called to order by Robert Watt. The following were nominated for officers, but the matter of their election was postponed one week: President, J. B. McChesney; vice president, J. H. Clark; secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth McMillan; executive committee—Senator George C. Perkins, Rev. J. K. McLean, Robert Watt, Francis Cutting, John G. Hoyt, Rev. B. H. Baker and F. L. Lipman. The nominating committee consisted of B. H. Parkinson, C. Z. Merritt and Principal Keyes of the Lafayette school.

Next Friday G. S. Wilson will address the league on "Recent Sociology."

BICYCLE RIDERS ARE TAKEN BY POLICE.

The police are now strictly enforcing the ordinance regulating bicycle riding, which prohibits all persons from riding mounted on any pedestrian on a sidewalk or path in any park in Oakland; requiring bells or whistles to be sounded at night when approaching any street crossing; and a light must be carried attached to the front of each bicycle.

Within the past three days thirty arrests have been made and in almost every case Police Judge Smith fixes the penalty at $2 or one day.

The Festival of Song to be given at the First M. E. Church Sunday evening by the choir promises to be very fine. The choir are to be assisted by Mr. Bert Georges the popular bass who returns to New York the last of the month to continue his studies, and by Mr. Lovell Langstroth who has just returned from Brussels and whose playing has caused most favorable comment. The program to be rendered is as follows:

TOM HAD A FUNERAL.

AND THE FUNERAL HAD SOME UNIQUE FEATURES.

At Least They Appeared Unique to the Strangers Who Were Present and Were Not Quite Used to the Ways of Tom's Widow.

After dinner as we sat on the veranda of the hotel an old man came up the steps from the street and said: "Gentlemen, maybe you'd like to walk up the street a few rods and show up at Tom Jackson's funeral. I've sent up the road for a preacher, and his wife has combed her hair and put on her shoes, and if you'll drop in for half an hour it'll be givin' the show a good send off."

There were four of us, all strangers to the little town, and as we had nothing to do that afternoon we decided to go. We therefore followed the old man up the street to a shabby old cabin and were met at the door by a middle aged, slatternly woman, who said: "It's powerful kind of you to drop in. Take chairs and squat."

In a few minutes the preacher arrived. There were about ten of us in the room altogether, while a cart waited at the gate to convey the body to its last resting place. Pretty soon the preacher stood up, cleared his throat and began:

"Another member of our circle has fallen by the wayside in the journey of life."

"Scuse me, elder," observed the wife, "but you've hit it dead wrong right at the start. Tom didn't do no fallin' down as we know of. He was taken with a chill along in the night."

"In the midst of life we are in death," continued the preacher after a painful pause. "We know not what day may bring forth. We cometh up as a flower and are cut down. We."

"Tom was no flower," said the wife as she shook the folds out of her bandanna. "If that was any man in this yere county who could lay him on his back, I'd like to see him."

"The deceased had his faults and his virtues, the same as the rest of us," remarked the good man as he shifted about uneasily.

"Yes, that was Tom to a dot," put in the wife. "If he found a stray hog in the woods, that hog was his meat, but he was so kind hearted he'd gin away his last chaw of tobacco."

"The deceased was not a professed Christian, as I understand it, but believed in a hereafter just the same. He believed—"

"Hold on, elder," interrupted the wife; "let's keep in the road as we move along. Tom didn't hev nothin' agin' churches, 'cept he thought the singin' and prayin' skeered game away. He didn't go shucks on no hereafter, however. He thought a feller who was bo'n and raised around yere and had plenty to eat and drink all the time would be a blamed hog to want to go to heaven afterward. Tom Jackson was no hog."

"We must not judge him too harshly," continued the elder, much put out, but feeling that he couldn't cut it off too short before strangers. "As I take it, every man is guided by his own conscience. He does what he thinks is for the best. For instance—"

"Scuse me, Elder Rider, but that was no fur instance about Tom Jackson," interrupted the wife again. "He was jest a plain, everyday man and no colliard. You are dead right about the conscience, though. That's what guided Tom. If he took a bushel of corn 'mo' than was actually needed, he was troubled in his mind and would grunt out in his sleep. Anything else on your mind, elder?"

"No, not as I know of," he stammered as he looked around.

"Waal, I reckon you've hit the mark high 'nuff. Tom was no talker biffis, and he didn't keer to be around whar folks was blabbin'. If you want to pray, elder, drive ahead, but don't spin it out."

"I kin skip that," he replied. "All right. We'll tote the body out to the cart. Strangers, will you tote?" We lifted up the coffin and carried it out to the cart, and the widow mounted up beside it and said:

"Thankee, strangers, and you needn't bother no mo'. I'm suah it was powerful kind of you. Be mighty keercful 'bout holes and rocks, Jim, for Tom did despise to be joggled and bumped about."

Three hours later I passed the cabin, and the woman sat on the doorstep using a spunk stick. I lifted my hat in salutation, and she waived her hand and said:

"Kivered up in good shape, and I'm much oblieged to you uns for drappin' in."

No Reciprocity.

"That Mrs. Simpkins didn't return my call."

"Well, that's no matter."

"No matter? She lives in the suburbs, and I spent 25 cents getting out there."—Indianapolis Journal.

A Household Treasure

Wine of Cardui has been a household treasure with us. When I married Mrs. Snapp my friends ridiculed me and asked me why I married a dead person. They said she would not live until fall. She then weighed less than 100 pounds. Now she weighs 145 pounds. She has three boys, the last weighing 9 1/2 pounds at birth and the other two 10 pounds each. That was her exclusive medicine and I am so well pleased with what it has done for her. We are willing to do you all the good we can for suffering humanity. W. H. SNAPP.

Mrs. Snapp has health and children, instead of waiting a slow death amid the gloom of a barren home. Instead of her own cry of pain breaking the silence of a darkened sick room, the prattle of her three children let sunshine into her heart. No wonder her husband writes of Wine of Cardui as a "household treasure". The Snapp family owe to Wine of Cardui all in life worth living for. A healthy mother is the foundation of a happy home. For fifty years has made happy mothers of sick and emaciated women. Thousands of women have written grateful letters with the same joyful ring as this letter from Ohio. The letters tell of freedom from those dragging monthly pains and of complete cures of the worst cases of falling of the womb, "whites" and the terrible headaches and backaches that follow menstrual disorders. They show that suffering the pangs of female ill is unnecessary when Wine of Cardui can be secured. Why do you suffer when such testimony is placed before you? Druggists sell $1.00 bottles.

DECOTO, June 8.—The Alvarado sugar mill is preparing for a big crop this season by adding to its shed and warehouse room and making other necessary improvements that will require a force of carpenters all summer to complete. A cattle shed 350 feet long, which will accommodate 200 head of cattle, is being built. The beet pulp which is left after the sugar has been extracted is used to feed stock, and there is so much of it during a season's run that some means had to be adopted to get rid of it, so a shed for cattle is being built and stock will be bought by the mill people and fed upon it.

VISITORS AT MASONIC HOME.

About fifty members of a Mission Lodge of San Francisco, together with wives and sisters, came out from San Francisco Sunday and spent a part of the day at the Masonic Home. They lunched at the home as guests of the trustees and the superintendent, Dr. Alhara and his wife. The visitors came on a special car.

HOLY GHOST AT PLEASANTON.

About seventy Portuguese residents of this neighborhood went to Pleasanton on the train Sunday to participate in the Holy Ghost festivities at that place. Nearly as many more drove over.

HAYING HAS COMMENCED.

Haying is being carried on in earnest in this vicinity, the hot weather we are experiencing being excellent for this industry. The people are sure to have enough hay of their own this year without importing from other localities.

SHIPPING GOOSEBERRIES.

John Carr is shipping gooseberries to the San Francisco market. He has a fair crop and is receiving a good price. His crop of currants is almost a total failure, owing to the first nipping them when they were young.

REPAIRING WAREHOUSE.

Ed Sols is having his grain warehouse repaired. A car of lumber has arrived with which to make the necessary improvements. The house will also be whitewashed.

RAILROAD PRECAUTIONS.

The railroad people have notified their tenants who have a hay crop along the road on the right-of-way to cut their crop and haul it away in the next few days, so that the danger of fire set by their engines will be lessened.

LADIES' GUILD MEETS.

The Decoto Ladies' Guild met Wednesday afternoon at the home of J. H. Hays. The members had quite a lot of sewing on hand, which they were very anxious to finish before they took their summer vacation.

RUST ON OATS.

Just as farmers thought everything was coming their way, along comes a damper in the shape of rust, which is quite thick on nearly all the oat crop. Some of those who have this kind of grain will now cut for hay instead of cutting and threshing for grain.

BRIDGE OR CULVERT?

Roadmaster Meyers is laboring with the Board of Supervisors to get either a bridge or a culvert put in across the creek which runs through Ed Whipple's place about half a mile from town. Supervisor Horner is favorable to the idea, but when the matter came before the Board Monday it was laid over until the next meeting for further investigation.

It was said that there is a doubt that some kind of a bridge will be put in, probably a wooden one, which could be built for $500. A culvert made too small would be worse than nothing at all, for the overflow would do a great deal of damage and involve the county in a law suit.

FINISHED PICKING PEAS.

Joe "W." Smith has finished picking the thirty acres of peas on the C. C. Crane place. The yield from the peas was something like thirty-three tons.

NOTES.

The public schools closed yesterday.

H. A. Sturks of San Francisco was the guest of D. C. Kelley Saturday.

Mrs. Dr. Aiken, Mrs. C. C. Crane and Mrs. F. Meyers attended the Clisby-Alarid wedding in Oakland Wednesday.

Pat Matwees attended a funeral of an old friend in San Francisco Wednesday.

The assistant station agent spent Saturday at his home in Danville.

NEW CARS ON THE HAYWARDS CAR LINE.

ELMHURST, June 8.—About the first of the week N. P. Axberg will move his blacksmith shop to its new quarters. The building is almost completed.

Yesterday J. B. Ayers, who has resided in this city for some time, moved with his family to Oakland. Mr. Ayers has been in the shoe business here for the past two years and leaves many friends.

Tomorrow the two new cars which have been lying in the car barn for several weeks will be put in service, the trucks having arrived only a few days ago and are now being put on the cars. The cars are fine new ones and will be used only on the Sunday run for some time.

HAYWARDS BOY IS CRUSHED BY WAGON.

HAYWARDS, June 8.—Homer Fish, 9 years old, son of Edwin Fish, was crushed by the wheels of the heavy rock wagon passing over his chest yesterday afternoon. The boy was playing on the team, which was a "troller" behind another loaded wagon. The accident was unobserved, the injured boy lying for a couple of hours in the road before he was found and taken home. Dr. Browning attended the lad, whose chances for recovery are fair.

FAKE JEWELRY
AT MT. EDEN.

How Unscrupulous Men Impose on the School Children of Eden Township.

MT. EDEN, June 8.—Mrs. Story of Santa Rosa visited her sister, Mrs. H. J. Mohr, last week.

The Mt. Eden School closed last Friday after a very successful term under the direction of Mr. Swafford and Miss Bertram.

Miss Grace Clawiter is making an extended visit to her grandmother, Mrs. Clawiter, in Alameda.

Wesley Moore, with some San Francisco friends, left Wednesday for a few weeks' camping trip to Boulder Creek.

BUYS A RANCH.

Mr. Rippe has purchased a ranch near San Lorenzo and will take possession on the first of October. He has been a resident of Mt. Eden for many years, and his neighbors regret his departure from them, but all are pleased over his good fortune in securing a ranch of his own.

KENNELS.

The Glen-Ada Kennels of Mt. Eden boasts of some bird dogs as fine as are in the State or in any other States.

The owner, Wm. Gall, has received medals from the San Francisco Kennel clubs as premiums at the show last month. He had three dogs on exhibition and carried off three prizes. He is contemplating sending his dogs East to compete in contests in that section of the country, and if this plan is carried out he will be flooded with communications from that part of the world.

OIL BURNER.

The San Lorenzo Water Company is preparing to put an oil burner in their engine at their plant near Mt. Eden. A large tank has arrived and will be placed on the ground for the storage of oil.

FAKE JEWELRY.

Several small school girls have, in the past month received from Eastern jewelry firms packages of jewelry such as stick pins and beauty pins, each package containing a dozen or more of these articles. With these packages comes a letter requesting that the articles be sold for 10c each. For their trouble the girls are requested to select a premium and when the money is sent them they will forward the premiums by return mail.

Several girls have disposed of their packages to residents of this vicinity, because, for the small sum of ten cents they did not wish to turn these children away, although the jewelry was practically worthless. But when the children received the second package the stuff was returned. This is an unfair way of taking advantage of our young people, but the place being flooded with jewelry at this time would indicate that these firms were aware of the advantage taken of our people by the fake show which visited this place a few months ago and which disposed of natural scented beans, etc., and concluded this was a good place in which to unload cheap jewelry.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF

Privileges of the Cardinals at Rome

When Monsignore Martinielli received his red cap on May 8 he attained to a singular privilege, that of turning the picture of the Pope with his face to the wall. But it can be done only once, and he must die to have it done. This is how it happens:

In a cardinal's residence the principal apartment, called the throne-room, is draped in red. In the place of honor is hung the portrait of the reigning Pope under a red silk canopy fringed with gold. There is an arm chair on the floor reversed or turned to the wall, thus reserved until the Pope should visit the cardinal.

When the cardinal is dead his coffin is placed for some hours beneath this canopy and the picture of the Pope is turned with its face to the wall. So with the official red hat that the Pope will give Monsignore Martinielli when the latter goes to Rome some time hence he is invested with the full plenitude of his office. He can never wear it again. It will be put on his coffin and then hung up in the church of his CCG till his successor is appointed.

But he will have four other hats to wear, so he need not lack for covering. When he takes a walk he can use a three-cornered hat of black felt fringed with jet. When in church and outside a church he wears a red felt hat. When he is in his cap and under a canopy he dons the pontifical hat. In the Pontifical hat he wears a large hat of straw covered with red silk and bound with a ribbon of jet and gold. He does not wear it. One of his suite carries it before him.

ETIQUETTE FOR CARDINALS.
While in Rome etiquette does not allow a cardinal to walk. He must have a carriage and pair. When he goes out beyond the city walls an attendant follows him. Going to a public ceremony at the Vatican he is entitled to a gala train of these carriages and if a Prince to four.

He is preceded by four servants in livres, each carrying a sword. The first carries his hat, the second his cushion and the third his red silk umbrella. He is accompanied by his secretary in black with a silk mantle and a train bearer in a caucok of violet silk with buttons of black velvet, a circle of violet silk and a crozier or violet woolen coat with silk facings and short wide sleeves. This coat has a Uppel, forming in front a long pocket for the cardinal's breviary and the documents he takes with him in the Vatican. He also has a gentleman in the costume of Henry II of France to carry his beret.

In the Pope's chapel the cardinal's line at the benches on which they sit. They wear at ceremonial functions a caucok with a train of coat in winter and of more in summer. Collars, shoes and stockings are red. The girdle is of red with gold tassels, a crozier of red and the mitre of the same as the caucok. In Rome the cardinal is covered with a red mantlelet, outside the city it is un-ered. The hat is red felt with gold tassels. A cardinal's walking dress is always a black cassock or cassock, without train, with tippet and false sleeves. The collar and buttons are of scarlet. As Cardinal Martinielli is a member of the Augustinian order, this will be the color also of his ordinary costume like the habit of the order. But the skull cap, beretta and hat are always scarlet. The ordinary long of violet more, with a collar and facings of the same material. In winter there is also a cloak of violet or scarlet cloth with gold cording.

INCOME OF THE CARDINALS.
The cardinal of curia, or those residing in Rome, are entitled to a yearly income, or pittance, of 2,000 lire—about $400—which is paid out of the Peter's Pence. The cardinal dwelling ordinarily has these special apartments: At the entrance is an ante-chamber for the domestics. Above a credence are the arms of the cardinal. The cardinal's two kneeling cushions, the cardinal under a canopy. On the wall one of red and the other of violet silk, and his two umbrellas of the same colors. These last are for covering him when he is making a solemn entry into a church or following the viaticum bareheaded. The second room is for the cardinal's secretary. The third is called the ante-chamber of the beretta, because the red beretta is placed there on a console before a crucifix. Then comes the throne-room, which has already been described.

When a cardinal asserts that the Pope has said this or that, or has given such an order, he must be believed on his word without being obliged to prove it. This is called the credictum vivit vocis.

Cardinals should be 50 years of age. Monsignore Martinielli will be one of the youngest members of the college. He is now 33. Cardinal Skobensky, archbishop of Prague, is the youngest, being only 33. Cardinal Yvrea is the next. He is 47. Then Monsignore Martinielli fits in.

When the sacred college is complete there are seventy cardinals, viz. six bishops, fifty priests and fourteen deacons. Cardinals of a lower order have, with the consent of the Pope, the right of option to pass to a higher order. The deacons can choose the vacant places of the cardinal priests if they have been deacons for ten years and have been ordained to the priesthood. The senior cardinal priest present in Rome when one of the six bishoprics falls vacant has the option to succeed to it, with the exception of the sees of Ostia and of Porto, which are reserved for the dean and the sub-dean of the sacred college. The dean is the senior cardinal, dating from his promotion to one of the sees.

ONLY THREE VACANCIES.

There are now sixty-seven cardinals—forty Italians and twenty-seven of other nationalities. It is said that Pope Leo XIII desires eleven to be the membership of the college, or limit, and that he said just before making out the recent list of twelve new cardinals:

"Better than there should be as many as possible to choose from in the next conclave." Pope Pius IX, having had the longest reign, created the most cardinals, 123. Pope Leo XIII has buried 126 cardinals since he began his pontificate. Besides Cardinal Martinielli seven other cardinals have had to do with the Church of North America. They are Cardinal Cheverus, the first Bishop of Boston; Cardinal McCloskey, Archbishop of New York; Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore; Cardinal Tscherning of Quebec; Cardinal Parisis, Bishop of Savannah; Cardinal Marzella, the Jesuit theologian and professor at the college at Woodstock, Md., and Cardinal Sallusti, former delegate to the United States. Of these, Cardinals Cheverus, Persico and Marzella had left this country before they were created cardinals.

Most of these facts about the cardinals are related to the New York Sun on the authority of the learned Rev. Dr. William Humphrey, who has written so entertainingly on the machinery by which the Supreme Pontiff governs the visible Catholic Church.

TEXAS GIRL'S DARING TRIP FOR HER LOVER

Charlie Waynack of Marble Falls, Texas, met with an extraordinary adventure, which would certainly have terminated his mortal career had not a brave girl rescued him from a perilous situation by risking her own life. The young man had set out from the home of his sweetheart for the purpose of hunting a bird of paradise. The Texas bird of paradise is not so gay of plumage as its kindred of the semi-tropics, but it possesses feathers of marvellously beautiful colors. Miss Kate Mayland, who is regarded as the belle of the Guadalupe valley, had promised to become the bride of happy Charlie Waynack on the evening of a day in the near future, and, as she is a great admirer of bright colors, she had asked him to secure for her the plumage of a bird of paradise, which she wanted to use on her wedding day.

No lover was ever more sincerely devoted to his sweetheart, and the happy young man would have eagerly faced almost any danger to have satisfied her slightest wish. He knew that a colony of the famous birds of paradise had long made their abode in a cleft of the precipice of the Guadalupe mountains. This well known lofty range is located on the southern side of the Guadalupe valley, near Japoneia. It is a stupendous mass of solid granite, rising straight up from the waters of the river to a height of 350 feet, according to the latest geological survey. A man on top of the mountain looks about the size of a monkey to one who is standing in the valley below. About fifty feet below the summit of the mountain and 300 feet above the sparkling waters of the Guadalupe there is a narrow ledge upon which can be seen a few stunted cedars.

An human foot even touched this cleft in the precipice, nor did any human hand ever touch one of the beautiful flowers that can be seen blooming amongst the evergreens. Only creatures endowed with wings could ascend to such dizzy heights and perch where the eyes of admiring mortals must be satisfied with contemplation. Many pairs of birds of paradise have made their nests in perfect security on the narrow ledge and in the boughs of the cedars for several years. The old birds often visit the fields in the valley and they frequently mingle their morning matins with the sweet notes of the male, while flitting from bough to bough in the oaks and pines on the top of Joy mountain.

AN ARDENT YOUNG MAN.

The ardent young man was familiar with the habits of the pretty birds that his sweetheart had sent him to capture, and when he willingly set out in obedience to her wishes he went straight to the top of the mountain, hoping to find one or more of the gay songsters in the trees. He had barely reached the desired locality before he saw a cloud of gaudy colors arising from the precipice. Purple and gold mingled with flashes of every color of the rainbow dazzled his eyes as the birds rose to the music of their sweetest songs and settled in the branches of an oak that stood almost on the brink of the precipice.

A magnificent specimen of the feathered colony, with plumage seemingly of a thousand hues spread out in its most attractive form, perhaps to fascinate some coquette of his kind sailed above the chirping throng and perched on a bow alone. This pleased Waynack, for he was a great admirer of the birds, and having no desire to commit useless slaughter, he was glad of the opportunity to get a shot at a single specimen.

Raising his gun to his face he quickly fired, and the feathered beauty fell fluttering to the ground. Waynack ran forward to secure his prize, but it struggled nearer to the edge of the bluff. In his eagerness to grasp the bird he did not notice how near he was drawing to the brink of the terrible precipice. Once he had a hand on one of the wounded beauty's wings, but it slipped from his grasp, and, in his anxiety, he slid after it again, reaching as far as he could. The bird needed his hand and he drew it back. Knowing that Kate had set her heart upon possessing the plumage of a bird of paradise, he slid a little nearer the dangerous edge of the precipice.

Only the hot blood of a reckless lover could have blinded the youth's eyes to the fact that he was within a few inches of the brink of a perpendicular wall of rock 350 feet above the foaming waters of the Guadalupe. Small rocks began to roll from under his body. He saw the bird disappear, and he felt himself sliding forward. In vain he dug his fingers against the sloping surface. Cold perspiration streamed from his brow, and he realized that his heart had ceased to beat. Though his eyes were wide open darkness surrounded him. He rolled over on his breast and threw his open palms against the earth with all his power. The heroic effort was useless. Slowly his body slid over the brink, and with a wall that startled the wild birds, he shot forward into the air.

THE LOVE AFFAIR.
Old man Joy, who lived at Japonia, happened to be riding along the road on the opposite shore of the Guadalupe. He heard the frightful wall of the unfortunate youth, and, noticing the flight of a flock of birds of paradise, he looked towards the mountain. He saw a human form shooting through the air. At first he felt that it was a bird, but as it turned over and over, and the birds of Joy plumed flew about it shrieking, Joy saw the body strike among the cedars on the cliff where the birds of paradise nested. He expected to see it pass on and fall crushed and lifeless into the Guadalupe, but it did not. He gazed at the cedars in amazement and terror. Spurring his horse close to the edge of the water he strained his vision in the direction of the ledge far up on the side of the awful precipice. A moan of despair reached his ears, and as he looked amongst the still trembling boughs so far above the water, he recognized the body of a man.

An inkling of the truth flashed across his mind. Certainly some one had fallen over the bluff, and the body had lodged among the cedars on the ledge, 300 feet above the Guadalupe. He shouted with all the power of his lungs, and, to his amazement, a voice answered him. It sounded like a far away echo.

"Tell Kate I fell over the bluff. Tell her good-bye."

Mr. Joy was familiar with the love affair and he knew what had happened. Fortunately he is a sensible, energetic old pioneer.

"Hold fast, Charlie," he shouted. "Don't give up. We will save you."

Driving the spurs into the flanks of his horse he made the animal fly towards his house. He had not gone far before he met five cowboys—Mr. Waynack's comrades, who had just started out to round up a herd of steers. In the fewest possible words he explained to them what had happened, and asked them to follow him. It was necessary to pass Joy's house and cross the river in order to reach a trail that led to the top of the mountain. The distance was not great, but they had to wade against the steep ascent.

Fortunately, Joy and the cowboys met Kate Mayland and one of the old man's daughters mounted on their ponies starting out for a ride. Showing them to follow and ask no questions, they led the way through his gates to the ford on the river. As the old man fairly flew along the trail he calculated that the cowboys had perhaps 200 feet of rope, and he carried a long ladder at the horn of his own saddle. If they could only get to the summit before Waynack gave out they would have plenty of rope to reach him twice over, for the ledge was not more than fifty feet from the brink of the precipice.

Not until they had all dismounted and were collecting where the desperate lover had shot the bird of paradise only a few moments before did the girls know what had happened.

PROVED A HEROINE.

Kate proved to be of heroic mold. There was one little moan from her lips, and then with deft fingers she fell to work to help splice the ropes. One of the fearless cowboys crawled to the brink and peered down into the awful abyss.

"He is still there," he said. "Give me a larlat, quick."

A big, strong fellow by the name of Tom Houston, after bracing himself against a tree, was about to drop the noose over the bluff when the cowboy who was looking at Waynack said:

"Stop; come one will have to go down there. He is too weak to hold the rope or tie it about him if it was his side."

"I will go," said Kate. He did it all for me. I would be ashamed to let one of you boys risk your life, knowing that I caused the poor boy to fall over there."

She already had the noose around her body.

"Now, Tom," she said, "let me down. It is my duty to go to him."

They saw that it would be useless to try to stop her. Houston had taken a half hitch around a tree with the rope and the slowly let the girl slide over the precipice.

"I can hold her," he said. "There is really no danger, for this rope would hold a steer."

One of the boys leaned far over the brink to watch the brave girl and catch her words, while Joy and the others let down another rope.

Kate reached her sweetheart's side, and in silence she faced his colorless face and bleeding hands convulsed by that not a moment could be spared her that she succeeded in saving him from plunging headlong into the yawning abyss. He was lying on the thickly matted branches of a cedar, which the brave girl could plainly see was fast yielding under the boy's weight. The roots of the tree had only a precarious hold in the clefts of the rocks, and it was slowly swaying in the breeze and heaving farther out from the perpendicular wall. The trembling boy knew that it was slowly giving away, and though he had grasped the boughs until blood was oozing from under his finger nails, he fully realized that only a few moments would pass before the tree top would descend faster and faster and finally sweep downward with the rapidity of a falling stone and tear its roots from the ledge.

"It is going fast, Kate," he whispered through the blood and froth on his lips. She had the dangling noose prepared for him in her hand, but she could hear the roots of the cedar snapping and the top with its precious burden was fast descending. At the next instant a word came to her with a crash, and her sweet heart would shoot through the air, bleeding and mangled, into the surging waters of the Guadalupe, 300 feet below.

"Bravo, Charlie," she whispered, as she swung the noose below his feet and drew it close under his arms.

"Saved!" shouted a cowboy on the summit.

THE DEXTEROUS CAST OF THE LARLAT HAD OCCURRED AT THE LAST MOMENT. Terror had conquered courage and endurance had yielded to despair. The tree gave way with a crash and the hopeless boy, with a shudder and a pleading look in his glassy eyes, had only time to whisper, "Good-bye, Kate," when he felt himself jerked loose from the falling boughs. Mingled with the shrieks of the birds of paradise he heard the word "Saved."

As the two lovers swung away from the wall of granite their faces came together and the brave girl kissed the blood from the lips of the limp form she had saved from being mangled upon the waters and rocks of the Guadalupe.

The fearless girl maintained her self-possession. While swinging by the apparently lifeless body of her sweetheart in midair, at such dizzy heights, she carefully instructed those above as to the way to draw the ropes. She made them pull up the body of the rescued youth first, and frequently saying to her friends, "Be careful," or "Don't get excited." Her face appeared above the edge of the terrible abyss, radiant and triumphant, while her bright eyes sparkled with happiness.

The body of the exhausted young man had been carried back to a safe distance from the edge of the bluff, and it was only when the brave Texas girl had fallen on the earth by the side of her sweetheart and drawn the white face against her bosom that her woman's heart yielded to the strain she had endured, and tears began to stream from her eyes, while she rained kisses upon the cheeks of the barely conscious youth and upbraided herself for being the cause of his terrible misfortune.

"Fall off of the mountain!" exclaimed Bill Terry, with a snort, as he riveted his eyes upon the marvellously beautiful girl, kissing life back into Waynack's limp form. "He was hunting birds of paradise for her, and if I could exchange places with him right now for two minutes I would be willing to ride the wildest bucking broncho in Texas right over that ere precipice, though it were forty times higher than it is, and I would not care for a lodgment in the boughs of a friendly cedar."

THE MECHANICAL EQUIPMENT OF A SHIPYARD. It is very exhaustive and profusely illustrated. "Personal Recollections of John Ericsson" is also very interesting. The magazine is published at 120-122 Liberty street, New York City.

A GOAT'S FINE BANQUET ON GREENBACKS.
Thirteen years ago Charles J. Allen, a farmer living near Ogdun, Ia., first found town, and while getting dinner left his horses to a hay-rack wagon. The animals upset the wagon, throwing down a vest which the farmer had left hanging on the rack. Mr. Allen, hearing the noise, rushed out of the hotel and, picking up his vest, found that six $5 bills had been left in one of the pockets had disappeared. An innocent looking goat stood near by, apparently licking its jaws.

A passer-by, suspecting of the theft, noticed the goat and offered to pay for the animal if the missing bills were not found in its stomach. The goat was killed, and the currency was found where the suspected man said it would be. This was the last heard of the matter until this week, when William F. Gardner of the War Department received a package from his father-in-law, who is a Justice of the Peace at Ogdun, containing the mutilated currency.

The lump of dried, hard pulp was taken to the Treasury Department, and the experts patiently patted open of the bills on separate sheets to show that six $5 bills had been destroyed. Under the rules there have been returned to the owner for an affidavit that the fragments are all that remain and the facts as to the goat's dinner, and upon receipt new bill will be issued. Mr. Allen will lose only thirteen years' interest on his money—Washington Dispatch in the Philadelphia North American.

Why He Re-Married Quickly.
A stranger was in the Union station the other day and was telling of an occurrence on his farm. One of his employees was a German. He was a hard working, honest and conscientious man, and was married. His wife was taken sick and finally died, the husband, of course, leaving his work for several days in consequence. Two weeks later he appeared at the house of his employer and asked to be relieved from work for a couple of days; when the following conversation took place:

"I would like to get off for about two days."

"I can't spare you unless it is absolutely necessary. You know you lost several days two weeks ago, and we are behind in the work. What is the necessity for your getting off?" inquired the farmer.

"Well, I was to be married."

"Why, Fritz, your wife died only two weeks ago, and now you are about to get married again. I do not understand that."

"I don't," replied the German. "I don't hold any more."

The farmer then explained the case without prejudice—Columbian Dispatch.

IN THE FIELD OF LITERATURE

Review of the New Book "Crisis,"

Written by Winston Churchill.

"The Crisis" is the name of the latest book by Winston Churchill, the author of "The Celebrity" and "Richard Carvel." There is nothing in its name to indicate to what it refers, but the "crisis" of which it speaks is that in which this country found itself prior to and during the war of the Rebellion. This is a period which is rich in both fact and incident, the interest in which becomes the greater the farther the period is left behind. Not many years ago, it was utilized perhaps with a frequency which caused satiety. It is now, however, explored only at rare intervals and then, by men who are, as a rule, capable of doing justice to both time and incident. Of these explorers, Mr. Churchill is in the forefront. He has given us, in "The Crisis," a wonderful and interesting work based upon one of the most thrilling epochs in the career of the nation.

Mr. Churchill, as a writer, is elegant, graphic and forcible. As an analyst of character he is acute and subtle and in portraying individuals he is master of style which is both simple and effective. The romance which runs through the work is cohesive and interesting. The hero is noble, patriotic, and brave. As a background for the romance, there is a picture of life in the border land between the North and the South, namely in St. Louis, where, at the time mentioned, feeling ran high. There Grant and Sherman both lived before the war and thence both of them rose from obscurity to imperishable renown. No better proof of the heights to which an American may rise if he is possessed of more genius than is illustrated in the career of these great men. Of Grant, it may be said that the public at large knew little before the war and what was said of him in a complimentary character was almost nullified by traducers. One of these, the writer remembers having heard refer to Grant when he was a candidate for the Presidency the first time as follows:

"Where was Grant when his opponent was legislating for this country? Why out on the plains, playing 'seven up' for the whiskey?"

In this connection, several extracts from the work, showing up the many-sided views entertained of Grant will be of interest, especially that which the author puts into Grant's own mouth when, speaking of himself to "General Blair," a character in the story and the original of which was subsequently a candidate for Vice-President of the United States:

"Where are you living now?" asked Blair.

"I moved to Illinois after I left here," replied Mr. Grant as quietly as before, "and have been in Galena. In the leather business there. I went down to Springfield with the company they organized in Galena, to be of any help I could. They made me a clerk in the Adjutant General's office of the State. I ruled blanks and made out forms for awhile. He paused as if to let the humble character of this position sink into the Colonel's comprehension. "Then, they found out that I had been a Quartermaster and Commissary and knew something about military orders. Now, I'm a State mustering officer. I came down to Bellevue to muster in a regiment which was not ready. And so I ran over here to see what you fellows were doing."

"Aren't you going in?" asked Blair.

"I can't afford to go in as captain of Volunteers," was the calm reply. "I served nine years in the regular army and I think I can command a regiment."

The narrative continues that Grant moved off up the street and some of the younger officers, who were present, laughed as they followed his retreating figure.

"Command a regiment!" laughed the lieutenant who had been a book-keeper and whose stiff blue uniform coat creased awkwardly. "I guess I'm as fit to command a regiment as Grant is."

"That man's forty years old. He's a day," put in another. "I remember when he came here to St. Louis in '54, played. He'd resigned from the army on the Pacific Coast. He put up a cabin down on the Gravois road and there he lived in the hardest luck of any man I ever saw until last year. You remember him, Joe?"

"Yes!" said Joe. "I spotted him by the El Sol sign. He used to bring a load of wood to the city once in a while and then he'd go over to the Planter's House or somewhere else and smoke one of those long fellows and sit against the wall as silent as a wooden Indian. After that, he came up to the city without his family and went into real estate one winter. But he didn't make it. Go. Curious it's just a year ago this month he went over to Illinois. He's an honest fellow and hard-working enough but he don't know how. He's just a dead Indian."

"Command a regiment!" laughed the first again as if this in particular had struck his sense of humor. "I guess he won't get a regiment in a hurry. There's hanging 'round you fellows now."

"He might fool you fellows yet," said the one called Joe, though his tone was not of conviction.

And so he did fool them, as all the world knows.

A true picture of Sherman at the same time is also published, at a time when he was considered "crazy" for asking for 200,000 men to guard the western line of the country, but lack of space prevents its reproduction here.

The book is full of interesting features like this, historical facts forming the basis for a work of fiction as engrossing in interest as has issued from the press for many years. The book is published by the Macmillan Company, New York City.

SYMPHONY OF LIFE.
"The Symphony of Life" is a series of constructive sketches and interpretations. It is written by Henry Wood who is the author of "Ideal Suggestion," "Studies in the Thought World," "The Political Economy of Humanism," etc.

Mr. Wood already has a wide circle of readers. His former book, six in number, having each passed through from three to thirteen editions. He stands at the forefront among writers on the new philosophy of life, spiritual evolution, sociology and other advanced thought.

In "The Symphony of Life" he presents his mind after a most busy and eventful career. In connection with this volume is a sketch of Mr. Coup's life. It does not consist of a dry-as-dust recital of common-place facts but rather of unique experiences, and incidents which will enchain the reader's attention to the close.

The new philosophy of health receives thorough and scientific though conservative consideration.

The higher evolution is ably treated and one or two chapters are devoted to Biblical symbolism. It is idealistic but its idealism is practical rather than speculative.

Abie thinkers who have read the advance sheets predict a large demand for the book.

On "Nervousness and Selfishness," Mr. Wood has this to say:

"It is common to attribute the undue prevalence of nervous disorders to our dry and exciting climate or some other glittering generality which does not bring the responsibility directly home to the individual. Human pride constantly demands 'scape-goats' and the supply is unlimited. But it would be better for us, collectively, and individually to confess judgment, for that in itself tends to mitigate penalty. When a fault is definitely located its rectification is well advanced."

Overwork conventionally bears a large share of the blame for nervous collapse, but far oftener, the cause is over-indulgence. In some of its many forms, which have selfishness as their work, what we call the 'pressure of modern life' is really born of selfish ambition."

Broadly defined, selfishness includes every abnormal concession to the lower nature. Any such surrender to mental and moral in its character for those manifestations which seem distinctly 'physical' are only the out-picturing and expression of that quality of mind which is back of them."

The book is published by Lee & Shepard, Boston, Mass., and retails for $1.25.

SAWDUST AND SPANGLES.
Every man and child in this country knows that a book styled "Sawdust and Spangles," can refer to only one thing and place and that is the circus and the manner in which it is conducted. Such a book has just been issued. It is written by W. C. Coup whom everybody in this country knows to have been one of the leading circus managers of this country. The manner and the motive of the book contribute to its charm and effectiveness. Mr. Coup has unbounded enthusiasm for his peculiar calling. His experience was to give the public a fair and fuller understanding of the real conditions of the business. The facts are recorded by his pen just as they come to his mind after a most busy and eventful career. In connection with this volume is a sketch of Mr. Coup's life. It does not consist of a dry-as-dust recital of common-place facts but rather of unique experiences, and incidents which will enchain the reader's attention to the close.

The circus has a charm for boyhood and youth and does not lose its interest even when age comes on apace. The boy who has not longed for the advent of the circus who has not marvelled at the elephant, beautified the ladies in spangles, worshipped even the van driver, was willing to carry a dozen buckets of water for the kangaroo or some other curiosity, to secure admission to the show.

An idea may be had of the nature of this book by a reference to the captions of a number of the chapters which it contains, and among these may be mentioned "First Exciting Experiences," "Intelligence of Elephants," "Teasing Old Romeo," "Why Baby Elephants Are Hard to Capture," "The Burial and the Resurrection of the Cardiff Giant," "The Two-Headed Girl's Three-Headed Rival," "On a Runaway Circus Train," "Jumbo's Free Advertising," "Perils of a Trainer's Life," "A Single-Headed Fight With Five Lions," etc. The book is beautifully illustrated and is published by Herbert S. Stone & Co., Eldridge Court, Chicago, Illinois.

THE DELINEATOR.
"The Delineator" for July is a model number. Typographically it could not be excelled in taste and excellence. It is rich in its suggestions of fashionable attire, there being a host of pictured garments, many of which are on plates colored in the highest style of art. Every other department, however, and the magazine is full of them, is also complete. The magazine is published by the Butterick Publishing Company, 17 Thirtieth street, New York City.

HARPER'S WEEKLY.
The opening feature of Harper's Weekly is a fine cartoon showing a female figure symbolizing American commerce, stepping in between a figure styled "Capital" and another figure denominated "Labor." There is a look of sorrow and fear on her face as she says: "Come, brothers, run have given so big you can't afford to quarrel." The other features of this number are varied, and entertaining. The paper is published in Franklin Square, New York City.

ENGINEERING MAGAZINE.
"The Engineering Magazine" for June, contains among other things, an article which will be read with a great deal of interest by mechanics. It is styled

GREAT BELL IN THE BELFRY AT ST. MARYS.

The great bell which is to hang in the belfry of the Church of St. Mary, Star of the Sea, at City Island, was anointed on Sunday in the church by Archbishop Corrigan, assisted by the Rev. Father Connelly and a large number of priests in the presence of a great congregation. The bell was lately purchased at a cost of $5,000 by the worshippers in the Church of St. Mary, of which the Rev. John R. McGuire is pastor.

At the church the archbishop blessed the water and the salt, after which a number of the clergymen washed the bell with the fluid, inside and outside, and dried it carefully with a towel. The master of ceremonies then made with chalk seven crosses on the inside of the bell, and in each spot indicated the archbishop anointed the bell with the holy oil. A dish bearing a mixture of thyme, incense and myrrh was placed under the mouth of the bell and set on fire. The clergy chanted psalms and hymns of praise. From the Chicago Chronicle.

Trains Delayed by Thistles.
Trainmen in some parts of South Dakota have a new difficulty to surmount in the shape of vast masses of Russian thistles, which collect in drifts on the tracks. The weeds are blown into cuts, where they become interwoven so closely that sometimes trains are delayed for hours. The locomotives might push their way through but for the fact that the rails become slippery through the crushing of the oily fiber and seeds, the wheels refusing to revolve even after a liberal application of sand.

Feeling the Other Passengers.
"Clara, dear, we've been careful so far and I don't think they suspect we are just married. You must wait me a little now as we get off the train."

Clara (sharply and in a high-pitched voice): "George, darling, when we get to the hotel you must certainly take off that absurd lavender necktie!"—Chicago Tribune.

SCHOOL BOARD FORCES
SOME RESIGNATIONS.

Many Changes Will Be Made in the Department
at the Meeting This Evening.

The new Board of Education will meet tonight and the result of its new broom will be made manifest in a number of changes in the personnel of the teaching force of the city schools.

Some of these changes are the result of resignations which have been asked by the new organization, and some are voluntary for various reasons, principally those of matrimony on the part of several of the best known teachers in the department.

BOARD DETERMINED.
The Board of Education has taken hold of this matter in a manner which impressed the employees of the department with the fact that they meant business. They have been influenced, they allege, only in the minimum by outside pressure. They considered the availability of applicants as against certain individuals in the department, and, when changes were deemed advisable, those changes were decided upon.

This determination was especially true of the High Street Committee, following the precedent it had established in bringing to a close the principalship of J. B. McChesney of that institution.

The committee informed Vice-Principal Meads that he would not be informed as to any changes which they proposed to make, and, furthermore, that his opinion as to the advisability of any changes would not be asked, neither would he be asked for a recommendation. The committee, however, declared that they would be conservative in their acts, and there is little doubt that they have kept their word.

H. W. MEER ELECTED AT FRUIT MEETING.

At the meeting of the Cured Fruit Association at San Jose yesterday H. W. Meek was elected vice president. He received the highest vote of any candidate.

F. H. WILLIAMS ELECTED AT SAN LEANDRO.

SAN LEANDRO, June 8.—F. H. Williams was elected School Trustee here by 72 votes. He did not have an opponent.

SPANISH TEACHER GOES.

The most radical change in the High School is that of the enforced retirement of Professor Pablo Sanchez, who has been teacher of Spanish in the school for some time and who resides in Berkeley. His successor at this time is unknown.

Miss A. W. Brewer, it was at first rumored, was going to tender her resignation because of her intended long absence abroad. Then it was stated that she would ask for a leave of absence for a year, the same as has been granted to others, and it is this proposition which will come before the board tonight. While abroad Miss Brewer will enjoy an extended vacation and, at the same time, study for her own improvement and collect facts on certain subjects for friends in this city.

MORE MATRIMONY.

Miss C. M. Cushing, also of the High School, will ask to be excused from further attendance upon its classes because she has decided to enter the marriage state.

Miss K. D. Anderson of the Harrison school is another teacher whose name at her own request will be dropped from the roll of teachers because she has made up her mind to hereafter reside over a home.

A TOMPKINS CHANGE.

From the Tompkins school there will be dropped the name of Mrs. O. Day, who has also decided to abandon the classroom for a new and cozy home of her own.

Miss Luella Everett of the Cole school will know her class room no more, because she, too, is soon to enter an alliance of the matrimonial order.

LAFAYETTE LOSES TWO.

At the caucus at which these changes were agreed upon the dropping of the names of a couple of the teachers in the Lafayette School was suggested by School Director Randolph and the matter was agreed to by the Classification Committee, and it was understood that the consequent changes will be made tonight.

more, because she, too, is soon to enter an alliance of the matrimonial order.

At the caucus at which these changes were agreed upon the dropping of the names of a couple of the teachers in the Lafayette School was suggested by School Director Randolph and the matter was agreed to by the Classification Committee, and it was understood that the consequent changes will be made tonight.

In some of the other schools there will be a few minor changes.

A JANITOR GOES.

Among these will be a change in the janitorship of the Perilla school caused by the retirement of Mrs. Ekberg, who, it is said, intends to go abroad.

Mrs. Louise Munson is an applicant for the position, and it is said has considerable backing.

HIGH SCHOOL APPLICANTS.

For the positions which are to be vacated in the High school, applications have been made by a teacher from Sturgeon, Missouri, another named W. L. Oliver of Lincoln, Neb., and a third by Alice M. Hollister.

WANTS MCHESNEY'S PLACE.

The latest applicant for the position of principal of the High school is C. L. McLane, who is now Superintendent of Schools of Fresno. Mr. McLane says that the work of superintending schools is not congenial to him and that he desires to get back to high school teaching which is a forte of his and which is entirely to his liking.

Another enforced change will affect a teacher in the Piedmont school. On the preferred list, this evening, the board will place twenty-four names and from among these, teachers will be selected when needed.

There are now, however, about 120 applications on file for positions mainly of the primary and grammar grade order.

TRUE CONDITION
OF MRS. M'KINLEY

Physicians Hold a Long Consultation and Issue a Long Bulletin.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Mrs. McKinley's physicians were in consultation about two hours today, and subsequently a very complete statement of the true character of the illness from which she has been suffering was issued. Such a statement has been promised from time to time, and while in San Francisco it was said the President desired a fuller announcement of the nature of Mrs. McKinley's illness given to the public. But for one reason or another, it has been withheld up to the present time. The bulletin is as follows:

"Mrs. McKinley's illness has been a blood infection resulting from peristitis of the index finger (bone felon), which began in Los Angeles and which was promptly treated by incision. The subsequent condition of exhaustion was due to the same blood infection with a complication. She improved, however, and was brought home in comfort and without loss of strength. Her principal cause of anxiety in her case since her arrival in Washington has been acute endocarditis (inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart), involving the mitral valve, the result of the same blood infection. Mrs. McKinley's case at the present time presents a more cheerful aspect.

The statement that Mrs. McKinley's case at this time presents a more hopeful aspect is the best word that has come from the sick room since the arrival of the distinguished patient in Washington. The President feels considerably encouraged. Today is Mrs. McKinley's birthday and many beautiful flowers and gifts were left at the White House for her.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, June 8.—Judge Burnham of the District Court today decided that the Iowa cigarette tax law is constitutional and that the property of dealers in cigarettes and owners of buildings where they are sold may be attached and sold for said tax. more, because she, too, is soon to enter an alliance of the matrimonial order.

At the caucus at which these changes were agreed upon the dropping of the names of a couple of the teachers in the Lafayette School was suggested by School Director Randolph and the matter was agreed to by the Classification Committee, and it was understood that the consequent changes will be made tonight.

In some of the other schools there will be a few minor changes.

A JANITOR GOES.

Among these will be a change in the janitorship of the Perilla school caused by the retirement of Mrs. Ekberg, who, it is said, intends to go abroad.

Mrs. Louise Munson is an applicant for the position, and it is said has considerable backing.

HIGH SCHOOL APPLICANTS.

For the positions which are to be vacated in the High school, applications have been made by a teacher from Sturgeon, Missouri, another named W. L. Oliver of Lincoln, Neb., and a third by Alice M. Hollister.

WANTS MCHESNEY'S PLACE.

The latest applicant for the position of principal of the High school is C. L. McLane, who is now Superintendent of Schools of Fresno. Mr. McLane says that the work of superintending schools is not congenial to him and that he desires to get back to high school teaching which is a forte of his and which is entirely to his liking.

Another enforced change will affect a teacher in the Piedmont school. On the preferred list, this evening, the board will place twenty-four names and from among these, teachers will be selected when needed.

There are now, however, about 120 applications on file for positions mainly of the primary and grammar grade order.

TRUE CONDITION
OF MRS. M'KINLEY

Physicians Hold a Long Consultation and Issue a Long Bulletin.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Mrs. McKinley's physicians were in consultation about two hours today, and subsequently a very complete statement of the true character of the illness from which she has been suffering was issued. Such a statement has been promised from time to time, and while in San Francisco it was said the President desired a fuller announcement of the nature of Mrs. McKinley's illness given to the public. But for one reason or another, it has been withheld up to the present time. The bulletin is as follows:

"Mrs. McKinley's illness has been a blood infection resulting from peristitis of the index finger (bone felon), which began in Los Angeles and which was promptly treated by incision. The subsequent condition of exhaustion was due to the same blood infection with a complication. She improved, however, and was brought home in comfort and without loss of strength. Her principal cause of anxiety in her case since her arrival in Washington has been acute endocarditis (inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart), involving the mitral valve, the result of the same blood infection. Mrs. McKinley's case at the present time presents a more cheerful aspect.

The statement that Mrs. McKinley's case at this time presents a more hopeful aspect is the best word that has come from the sick room since the arrival of the distinguished patient in Washington. The President feels considerably encouraged. Today is Mrs. McKinley's birthday and many beautiful flowers and gifts were left at the White House for her.

Boatman Gave Out a Story That the Clerical Gentleman Was Drowned.

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—The arrest of Arthur Hallen, a clerical gentleman of Santa Monica, on suspicion that he was Murderer Nelson, has brought to light a rather curious state of affairs.

Hallen was in disguise at the time of his arrest. At first the police were sure the man was Nelson, but closer investigation demonstrated their error. Hallen said he had assumed a disguise in order to have a little fling at San Pedro, unknown to his Santa Monica friends, and he was finally released.

This morning a Santa Monica boatman named Brown, not knowing of the misadventure that had befallen Hallen, reported that he and Hallen were out in a boat at Santa Monica last night and that Hallen had been drowned. There was a $50,000 insurance policy on his life.

GIANT NUGGET
FROM NORTH.

Claims Are Running Full Blast in the Klondike
District.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 8.—The Times says:

A giant nugget worth $268 was found in the recent washout on American Hill, Klondike. Today's reports from the North indicate exceptionally lively times in all the creeks. The clean-up of 1901 is in full swing. From all parts of the camp come reports of water running freely and claim owners taking prompt advantage of the opportunity to wash up their dirt. Summer work is also beginning. Double shifts are being put in at many places. Sulphur creek reported a good flow of water all along the stream and activity at all points.

Edorado is busy everywhere on the creek bottom and hills. The report comes from Cheechako Hill that nearly every claim there is running full blast and an aggregate of 1,000 men are estimated to be employed on the hill. The big pumping plants of McDonald and Grant and Borden and Company are working to their full capacity.

Hunter and Gold Bottom are alive with men engaged in sluicing and Hunter is already sending some gold to Dawson.

Bonanza has also sent in some new crop gold and is working at nearly all points.

LIVELY TIMES AT FRENCH DUEL.

Seconds Get Into a Quarrel and
More Trouble Is Promised.

PARIS, June 8.—The duel today lasted only a few seconds. M. Laberdesque, who is a fine swordsman, yesterday confined himself to the defense, but this morning, after half a dozen passes, he lunged and pricked M. Regis in the right forearm. The latter wished to continue the duel, but the seconds refused to let the fight continue.

A quarrel then broke out among the seconds and several spectators, who included the well known fencers Malato, Thomagoux, Suitsabier and others. Several challenges were exchanged and finally friends succeeded in leading away M. Regis, who was furious over the seconds' decision. Before he left, M. Regis shouted to M. Laberdesque: "I fought you to show you I was not afraid of your sword. You are, nevertheless, an assassin."

M. Laberdesque promptly retorted, asking the seconds to arrange another duel.

Two other duels are also promised in connection with the affair, one between Malato and a journalist named Leroy, and the other between Laberdesque's secretary, M. Brescher, and a journalist named Guiche.

DEAF MUTE ROASTED IN AN ALCOHOL BATH.

Official Fumigator Lights a Cigarette and Causes
an Explosion—Boy Dies From Burns—
May Be Murder Charge.

While being given an alcohol bath at the Institute for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind at Berkeley today Wirt Allen, a 9-year-old deaf mute was so badly burned that his life is despaired of and three physicians have been in constant attendance upon him ever since the sad accident.

The accident was due to the negligence of George Hoffman, a fumigator who undertook to give the little one an alcohol bath. While the child was in the tub Hoffman started to light a cigarette and instantly the liquid in which the child was bathing was a mass of flames.

The screams of the attendant attracted the attention of other attendants and the child was finally wrapped in blankets till the flames were smothered, but not until after the little one had been horribly burned.

Doctors O. D. Hamlin of Oakland, and J. N. Rowell and J. F. Eastman of Berkeley were hastily summoned and they worked with the child all night trying to allay the pain, but their efforts were of little avail for some time and for hours the child lay in an agony.

It is feared that the burns will result in death.

The child is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen of Winters, Solano county and has been at the Institute for about a year.

The boy's parents have been summoned and they are expected to arrive from Winters this evening.

Superintendent Wilkinson of the Institute and Dr. O. D. Hamlin were incensed at the fumigator's negligence and he will be arrested for criminal negligence. He was the official fumigator and was sent to the Institute to fumigate for small-pox by Dr. Hamlin.

It is almost certain that the boy will die in which case Hoffman will be charged with murder.

There are sixty-two cases of small-pox at the institution.

THE BOY IS DEAD.

At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, Wirt Allen, the boy referred to above, died and the remains have been taken in charge by Deputy Coroner Straight.

Further than this Mr. Lawson would not discuss the subject.

A secret meeting of the executive committee of the board was held last night to listen to the defense of Dr. Tubbs by the students, who protested vigorously against the removal. The committee determined to displace the professor. Dr. Tubbs was accused of teaching "higher criticism" to private classes of students at his home.

EXERCISES AT HIGH SCHOOL.

Ex-Principal J. B. McChesney Says Farewell to the Old School.

TELLS SOME STORIES OF THE OLD DAYS.

Graduates Receive Their Diplomas and Are Pleased With Their Success.

The commencement exercises at the Oakland High School last evening were most interesting. The auditorium was crowded to the doors.

The exercises were opened with a duet, "Oh, That We Two Were Maying," by Lowell Redfield and Miss Bertha Bouterous.

Rev. E. E. Baker then delivered an address. Lowell Redfield sang the "Hail Song."

Ex-Principal J. B. McChesney said farewell to the school and the scholars. He spoke in part as follows:

"But it is impossible for me, on this occasion, to give in detail the history of the High School. I have been thus far specific because the beginnings of institutions which have become prominent are always of interest. Suffice it to say that as Oakland increased in population the school grew in numbers so that in a little time it enjoyed the distinction of being the largest high school west of the Rocky Mountains; more than this, it had a reputation which attracted people to Oakland, and in time a large number of families came to acquire homes that they might avail themselves of the educational privileges of the city.

"I confess that it is with no little pride that I look over these lists of graduates. As I see the name on the written page with others of the class, the personality of the individual is brought before me. I see the young, eager face and hear the voice in recitation. I live again the days of twenty and thirty years ago. But then the thought comes, 'Where are all these now? Were those days of toil and self-denial for naught? No; for a second thought brings to mind where many of them are now. I find them as judges in supreme and superior courts; some have gained fame and wealth in the practice of law; others a wide reputation as physicians and surgeons; colleges and universities have placed them in their faculties; many are teachers in the public schools of this city; not a few have been successful as civil and mining engineers; the bank, the counter, the farm, the stage, all have honored representatives of the Oakland High School."

At the conclusion of Mr. McChesney's speech Gus Ringolsky in behalf of the graduating class presented to the school a large picture of J. B. McChesney. The gift was accepted by Sidney Richardson amid the applause of the audience.

C. H. Redington, President of the Board of Education, then made the announcements of the graduates and presentation of the diplomas, after which the friends crowded about the members of the class to congratulate them on their achievement.

WORK ON THE NEW POSTOFFICE.

W. T. S. Hoyt, Superintendent of Construction for the new Postoffice building, arrived yesterday from Topeka, Kansas, where he has been superintending the construction of the Postoffice and Court House building of that city. He will secure headquarters near Seventeenth street and Broadway, the site of the new building, as soon as possible and be ready for the breaking of ground when Contractor A. E. Barrett begins the work. It is expected that ground will be broken about the 15th of the present month. Superintendent Hoyt was in Topeka for sixteen months and expect to remain in Oakland for two years, during the construction of the building.

"My duties," said Superintendent Hoyt today, "will be to represent Supervising Architect Taylor in seeing that the contractor fully complies with the requirements of the specifications. I have been in Oakland so short a time, however, that I have not had time to study the specifications nor to make a hurried look at the drawings. From what I have seen of the drawings I think they are very good. In fact, they are the best I have seen for a public building of that size. The accommodations of the interior are good and the plans show excellent light and ventilation. Architecturally the building will be very fine and one of the best that the Department has turned out. One objection I find, however, is the size of the site. So fine a building should be placed upon a site where it could be seen to better advantage."

"What little I have seen of Oakland has pleased me and I think the business blocks are ahead of the average city of this size. I have not, however, had an opportunity to see the public buildings. Superintendent Hoyt is an architect of recognized standing in the East, and for the last five years he has been connected with the Treasury Department of the United States Government. Besides superintending the construction of the Topeka Postoffice and Court House, he superintended the building of the Postoffice at Mid-Merck, Ark., and Brockton, Mass. He is a native of Pennsylvania, and before entering the Treasury Department had a long experience as an architect in his native State. He will be the only Government representative in Oakland besides an occasional traveling inspector. He will also be the custodian of the site, a position filled by Postmaster Friend until his arrival.

THE TEACHERS MUST WAIT.

The prospect of the teachers in the High and Central Schools getting their May and June salaries before going off on their vacation is not at all bright. It may be said to be gloomy to blackness. It all comes from the refusal of the Auditor to approve the water bills ordered paid by the Board of Public Works pursuant to instructions from the Council. This ties up the money in the treasury and prevents an available transfer of funds to the School Department next Monday night.

The trouble might have been obviated had the Auditor filed his answer in the mandamus suit brought against him by the Water Company today, with a request that the case be heard immediately. In this way a decision could have been had in time for the Council to act Monday night. But the writ was made returnable on June 17th, and the Auditor has not filed his answer as yet. He shows no disposition to expedite a hearing, and it is not unlikely that the teachers will not get their money for some weeks yet. That means that they will have to take their vacation without their pay, which will be quite a hardship to some of them. Members of the Council have been importuned about the matter, but they pass the matter up to the Auditor. But it's rough on the teachers just the same.

CENTERVILLE MAN DIES AS RESULT OF BULLET WOUND.

John Rogers Soares, the Centerville farmer who, in January of last year was shot down in front of the Angelus home, died yesterday at the French Hospital in San Francisco. The attending physicians say that his death was due to the wound he received more than a year ago.

The identity of Soares' assailant has never been learned. Immediately after the shooting Soares in a dying statement said that it was Minnie Angelus who had fired the shot. The brother, Joseph Angelus, however, declared that it was he who had shot Soares. He said he had dressed himself in his sister's clothes and had shot Soares to avenge an insult offered to his sister Minnie.

LET HIMSELF OUT. "I constructed a fire escape yesterday in about two minutes."

"Come out." "Fact, I heard the boss was going to discharge me, so I wrote a letter of resignation and handed it in at once."—Philadelphia Press.

BROAD GAUGE ENGINE BROKEN.

The Accident Occurred Early Yesterday Morning in the Encinal City.

ALAMEDA, June 7.—This morning Engine No. 222 met with an accident at the broad gauge depot. Had it been going at full speed it would probably have wrecked the train. While crossing the street car tracks at Park street a sudden heavy jolt caused by a low joint where the tracks crossed stranded the engine, which was slowing down, was easily stopped. Another engine was telegraphed for and was soon on the scene. The accident caused the delay of several trains. The cause of the break was due to the crystallization of the steel on the hanger.

AMERICAN KINGS STILL A MYSTERY.

Good Feeling Between Our Financiers and London Business Officials.

LONDON, June 7.—The Lord Mayor, Frank Green, and the Sheriffs received the delegates of the New York Chamber of Commerce at the Mansion House today. About twenty of the delegates were presented to the Lord Mayor and were shown over the Mansion House. A number of members of the London Chamber of Commerce, including Lord Brassey and Sir Albert K. Rolit, were present.

The Lord Mayor addressed the Americans, thanking them in the warmest terms for their visit and declaring that nothing could have done more to promote a perfect understanding and unity between the two greatest nations of the world. He alluded to Morris K. Jessup's reference in his speech at the banquet Wednesday to the impossibility of jealous rivalry existing between the United States and Great Britain as one of the truest things ever said.

Lord Brassey spoke in a similar strain. Mr. Jessup, in reply, said: "Your kindness has captivated our hearts. We are not worthy of it." Loud cries of "No," in which some of the Americans joined, followed Mr. Jessup's remarks.

Mr. Jessup then referred to his fellow delegates as "children of the great country," and concluded with expressions of fervent thanks for their reception.

The Lord Mayor then proposed the healths of King Edward and President McKinley, coupling with the latter a heartfelt wish for Mrs. McKinley's recovery.

Andrew Carnegie was the center of attraction throughout. After the ceremonies the Lord Mayor went up to him and said he especially wanted to shake hands with Mr. Carnegie, who said:

"In New York, in my young and poor days, when I read about Dick Whittington, I little thought I should stand here shaking the Lord Mayor's hand."

The Lord Mayor replied: "We read nothing else today but of Mr. Carnegie's splendid gifts, and in the name of the English people, I want to thank you for your unexampled generosity."

The delegates were then entertained at informal luncheon, in Salter's, by the London Chamber of Commerce.

UNSELFISHNESS.

How may my soul on earth find rest and peace?

Such questioning, And say, How may I bring Unto some other soul a glad release? J. A. TORREY.

As Told in a Letter That Will Be of Interest to Every Woman Reader of this Paper.

"It happened about five years ago and is still a mystery," says Miss May Smith of Florence, Ravalli county, Montana, in a letter recently published by the St. Paul Pioneer Press, which follows. She referred to an illness which had no apparent cause, and which left her in that pale, emaciated condition which doctors call anæmia. Her letter, which will interest every woman, continues:

"I grew worse until I was completely run down. The least exertion, such as walking up stairs, would bring on an agonizing pain in the pit of my stomach. At other times I would suffer from a terrible pain in my head, something like neuralgia. I was troubled with shortness of breath and there was a smothering sensation about my heart which would beat heavily, with fits of palpitation. I had a pale, bloodless appearance and my limbs always felt tired."

"For three years I was under the care of two doctors, neither of whom seemed to know the nature of my trouble. They treated me for dyspepsia, ulceration of the stomach, gastritis and neuritis, but without good results."

Finally I found a remedy which restored me to health and brought the color to my cheeks. Two years ago I saw an advertisement in a St. Paul paper of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I bought a box and began taking them. They helped me so much that I kept on with them until I had taken five boxes altogether and became well and strong again. I gained in flesh and they gave me a healthy color. I have great faith in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and take them every spring and fall as a blood medicine and for the general building up of my system."

"I have recommended these pills to many people who were suffering much as I was, and they have all been benefited. My younger sister, whose skin is pale and transparent, is now taking the pills to restore her color."

The disease from which Miss Smith suffered was anæmia, a bloodless condition which, if neglected, inevitably means certain death. It is one of the most baffling of blood diseases and the remedy which has conquered it may be trusted to cure other disorders that have their seat in the blood. If the nerves cannot receive proper nourishment they cannot perform their functions. This was the cause of the nervous pains of which Miss Smith writes. All the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves are contained in a condensed form, in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. "They are an unfailing specific for all such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of the grip, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, and all forms of weakness either in male or female. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 (they are new, sold in bulk or by the hundred) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y."

MRS. MCKINLEY ABOUT HOLDING HER OWN.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Mrs. McKinley's physicians were in consultation over an hour this forenoon, and at 11:45 o'clock the following statement was issued: "Mrs. McKinley's physicians state her condition is about the same as reported yesterday. There has been no material change in the past twenty-four hours."

The examination of Mrs. McKinley's blood, which has been made under the direction of the attending physicians, showed negative results, there being no evidences of blood poisoning. That is only one of the various examinations that are being made by the physicians to determine the character of the illness of Mrs. McKinley. The blood was taken from her arm last Tuesday.

LIBRARY AT FRUITVALE WILL BE A SUCCESS.

FRUITVALE, June 7.—Mrs. W. W. Judson and children have gone to Pacific Grove for several months. Ed Curtis went to his father's ranch in the Santa Cruz mountains yesterday to spend the summer.

Yesterday A. F. Shulte went to Sacramento on business. It looks as if the new circulating library will be a success; several new members have been added to the list. The directors are now arranging to secure some more new books. All who do not belong should join at once. The library will soon be flourishing and it will present a fine opportunity to secure good books at a very reasonable rate.

Can't you remember the days when all watches were made in small shops, mostly by hand, and a good one cost $200 or more? Then came the large Elgin and Waltham companies, who, by system, division and arrangement of labor and machinery, make a good watch for less than half the old way.

You can still pay the $200, if you want to, but where is the advantage?

This is true, too, of Carriages. You can give the small builder, in the old-fashioned shop, double the amount of money that is necessary to get what you want, and, of course, he can use it. On the other hand it has been made possible by large factories to build modern vehicles of all kinds at less than half the cost of the old way, and the vehicles are better, not only in style, but in workmanship and finish. Why furnish the small, out-of-date shop $200 to build a vehicle which can be built for $100 in a modern up-to-date, well-directed Carriage Factory?

Our Factory at SOUTH BEND, INDIANA

Employs 2,300 men. Has on hand, at all times, 50,000,000 feet of lumber piled in space of one mile square, representing a value of $1,000,000. Builds 80,000 finished vehicles per year, and warrants every one of them. Ships fifteen carloads of complete vehicles every working day.

CALIFORNIA'S FISH LAWS.

A high compliment has just been paid to the game laws of this State by Eugene A. Tullian, Superintendent of the United States Fish Commission, who pronounces the fish laws of California as being about the best in the country. He considers it as noteworthy, too, that they are enforced with vigilance and offenders are prosecuted, which is not always the case in other States. Interviews of this sort, emanating from people so widely known as Mr. Tullian, are particularly of advantage at this time, when all the rest of the country, not realizing that this is a State of magnificent distances, probably imagines that lynchings are of frequent occurrence in and around Modoc, which, doubtless, they believe is a suburb of San Francisco, Oakland or Los Angeles. His statements go to show that this is a law-abiding commonwealth after all, whatever may be the case in the remote wilds of the far north.

Game protection as practiced in this era is a sign of advanced civilization. It is based on a regard for fish, the wild-fowl and game animals, and not on any imaginary rights of monarchs or privileged classes. But even enlightened laws cannot be enforced unless the sentiment of the community favors them. When, therefore, the authorities successfully prosecute offenders, as Mr. Tullian proclaims we do, it is a proof that the great body of our citizens are in the vanguard of civilization and that we ought not to be blamed for failing to foresee such an entirely unlooked-for affair as the late disgraceful exhibition of lawlessness in a far-away section of the State.

Aside from this feature of his interview, Mr. Tullian points out that the summer resorts and railways of Maine cleared last year $700,000, thanks to the attraction of fish made possible by patrolling the streams. This is a feature of game protection that California was among the first of the States to understand, and while our native members of the finny family are game and afford plenty of sport to the angler, we have added to this attraction many other species besides the trout, and the man with rod and reel must be hard to please who cannot enjoy himself at our summer resorts. The farmers and other residents of the State appreciate the pecuniary possibilities of this vacation "crop," and frown, accordingly, on all violations of the law, while notorious poachers are compelled to leave for other and less-favored localities.

Americans have secured full control of the subterranean transportation system of London. The envious Britishers will now be in a position to accuse them of working under cover.

Santa Barbara announces a big blow-out. Judging by the actions of the residents of that burgh when they come to town they must be alluding to the gas.

WANTED—A HIGHWAY.

Experiments by British army experts have proved that, at slow speed, automobiles can be driven across broken ground, even when loaded with the weight of a field gun, 100 rounds of ammunition and six men; yet a light machine with which an attempt was being made to cross the continent from San Francisco to New York recently came to grief on the sandy roads of Nevada. As the operator in the latter case had had much experience, the only inference possible is that the highways of the Sage-brush State are in such a deplorable condition as to be a disgrace to any American commonwealth.

When the project of the Pacific railways was first broached in Congress, Senator Benton, in supporting the measure, declared that alongside of the metal tracks would be wagon-roads, and in this way people would be enabled to travel from the Atlantic to the Pacific in their own conveyances, while the towns that would naturally spring up along the line would be connected with each other by sections of a great national highway, as well as by bands of steel. It was a delightful prophecy that, unfortunately, has never been fulfilled, yet the famous legislator was simply asserting what he believed would be true. Knowing the American people and foreseeing their progress, he could not conceive that the twentieth century would dawn with that highway still a dream.

Nevada and Utah ought not to be expected to construct such a road at their own expense, as it is really a national affair. The federal government has the money and the engineers and could undertake the work without any noticeable increase of its present working force. At the same time the authorities at Washington could spend a few dollars on the repair of roads through the forest reserves in this State, as they are falling into ruin.

A national road from San Francisco, if only to the Rocky Mountains, passing through the forests of the Sierra Nevadas, crossing the plains and hills of Nevada, and skirting the Great Salt Lake, would induce considerable travel and business that is now made impossible by the necessarily high railway charges. With increased business, communities would be built up and the population would grow. This is of vital importance to Nevada and should be urged on Congress by her Senators and Representatives, with the assistance of the delegation from the State of California.

The town of Fenton in Missouri claims the distinction of running without municipal officials of any description whatever. The fact that nobody ever heard of the place before indicates that the system they are bragging about is not conducive to the formation of a flourishing and growing community.

The Illinois Legislature is figuring on repealing the act whereby horse-racing is estopped in Chicago owing to the penalties attached to operating a betting ring. The new measure should carry a rider to make it thoroughly appropriate.

A big scandal is threatened in England regarding the purchase of army horses. Judging by the evidence at present in sight, however, someone has merely stumbled across a mare's nest.

THE PHILOSOPHER.

His wheel of logic whirled and spun all day.
All day he held his system, grinding it finer and finer, till 'twas fined away.
But the chance sparks of sense and mother-wit
Plunged out as that wheel-logic spun and whirled.
Kindled the nations and lit up the world.
—Edward Rowland Sill.

JUNIORS TO MEET IN CONVENTION.

Christian Endeavorers Are Planning For Many Events in the Future.

(Communications for this column should reach Miss May Cruff, 1132 East Nineteenth street, not later than Thursday A. M.)

Aren't you all ready to go to the Junior convention and picnic Saturday? Well, then, get ready, for it will be a treat and you don't want to miss it. All the Juniors and their friends should be there. It's the annual convention of the Junior Union, and it is to be at the Eden Congregation at Church at Hayward. The Hayward Electric Road will sell half-rate tickets good on any car on Saturday, but delegates should leave Oakland not later than 9:15 A. M. in order to get there in time for the program. After the program comes a picnic in the Hayward Park. Tickets come a picnic in the Hayward Park. Tickets come a picnic in the Hayward Park.

Centennial Presbyterian Church, East Oakland, will be represented at the Santa Clara Convention by Miss Charlotte Williams, Miss May B. Cruff, Mr. Robert Williams and Mr. T. H. Cruff.

The Juniors of the First Presbyterian Church, Alameda, held a delightful social a week ago at the home of their superintendent, Miss Esther Tugger. An entertaining program was given by the Juniors and the following officers elected: Gardiner, vice-president; Edmund Brush, secretary; Ethel Shoup, treasurer; Leona Hallie. After the program refreshments were served and games enjoyed by all.

Dr. Clark took with him to the Oregon Endeavor Convention an umbrella presented by Oregon Endeavorers that he had carried one and a half years in the world. The convention decided to retire it to the "honorarium list," and presented him with an "active" shade-by-sun and cover-in-shower.

Alameda county "Santa Ana List" is growing very rapidly every day, and if you are going you want to be getting ready. This State convention will never be duplicated, and it will be one you cannot afford to miss. Are you going? Geo. P. Lowell and see about your ticket right away, or you can sit up all night with the rest of those who are not going to take sleepers; no extra charge for staying up, but, O, what a difference in the morning! Be sure you bring your State badges and Alameda county buttons and lunch for two meals.

For those who are to stay at home, be at the train at First and Broadway and see the party off with words of good cheer.

Mr. Humphrey, who has in charge the decoration of the Alameda county train, is very anxious to make it the finest ever leaving the county in the way of decoration. See him and see what you can do towards helping him. We cannot afford to miss any of our county outfit, we must be in the lead and we must try hard, for Santa Clara county also wants to have the lead in the decorations of their car, but we will all help and, of course, we shall lead.

The regular monthly business meeting of the C. E. Society of the First Presbyterian Church of Hayward was held last Wednesday evening in the church parlors and the following officers were elected: President, Clifford Bay; vice-president, Miss Mamie Romag; recording secretary, D. J. Stewart; treasurer, Miss Grace Krelinger; financial secretary, Mrs. Stewart; chairman of Boyer Meeting Committee, Miss Mattie Gamble; chairman of Lookout Committee, Elma Mansfield; chairman of Social Committee, Ella Garrettsen; chairman of Missionary Committee, Mrs. Mansfield.

The Program Committee for the next county convention to be held at Centennial Presbyterian Church is as follows: Miss Florence M. Gordon, chairman; Rev. R. C. Stone, Miss Clara Pierce, Rev. H. Mowbray, Miss Clara Pierce, Miss Flora Frickland and Mr. Byron Hendrickson. This committee will do everything in its power to make this convention program one long to be remembered; they will have the advantage of the enthusiasm of those returning from Santa Ana to help them. The committee may call upon you for help in some way; if so, do your part.

On Friday evening, June 8, the Senior Society of C. E. of the Park Congregational Church will give a children's social for the children of the town of Berkeley. Games, music and plenty of good things will be served. The committee is in charge of Miss Ronaldson and promises to be a grand success.

During the summer months work in the social is up to us, and just at the time the "Whatsoevers" should get in their best work. Every society has not that committee down on its list of committees, but the members who are at home during vacation time should consider themselves as being on the committee. The Whatsoevers Committee is a very useful one. Its business is to do the little things that other committees do not do. There are more of these little things to do during the summer months than at any other time, as the meetings need to be made particularly attractive to get members out on the warm evenings, and then so many are away that their work is not done unless done by the "Whatsoevers." Here are a few things that will help your society during the summer, or at any time, and belong particularly to the Whatsoevers Committee.

Ventilate the room after the Christian Endeavor meeting.
Put back the leader's chair and desk.
Arrange the seats that may have been disturbed during the Endeavor meeting.
Keep the hymn books in good order.
Act as an aid for some other committee.
Let yourself to the president for any service he may wish you to perform.
Attend the Junior meetings.
Fill up the front seats at the Endeavor meetings.
Be the very first one to take part.
Wear a sunny smile.

If possible during the summer vary the program of your C. E. meeting so as to keep up the interest. Have an object lesson meeting, all the endeavors coming with natural objects, pictures and the like, showing how these things illustrate the evening's topic.
An "original meeting," at which no thought shall be given except what the Endeavorers get solely out of their own minds.
A meeting at which every member brings a bit of personal experience illustrating the subject.
A "great preachers' meeting," all the members to be chosen from the words of famous ministers, whose names are to be given.
If possible it is an excellent idea for a society to have an out-door meeting during the summer and let it be a praise meeting.

EXERCISES AT SACRED HEART.

Graduates from the Lay Catholic School at North Oakland.

The closing exercises of the Sacred Heart school for boys in the Sacred Heart parish, of which Rev. Father Serda is pastor, took place last Wednesday in the parochial school hall on Forty-first street near Grove.

There was a large attendance of friends and parents of the scholars, all of whom enjoyed the program, which was greatly admired. On it was painted a beautiful view of the mission at Santa Barbara. The painting was the work of E. J. Anderson of this city. The excellence of the painting caused the artist to be called for, but Mr. Anderson was not present. In his behalf Brother Xenophon made a few remarks in behalf of the artist.

The program was as follows:

VICTOR EMMANUEL'S JEALOUSY.

King Victor Emmanuel is undeniably unpopular in more than one influential quarter. This is explained on grounds purely personal. During the later years of his princely life he was the husband of a beautiful woman, in whom his pride was mixed with a dash of jealousy. This led him to offend against custom and against certain Mayors of towns, big and little, whose traditional rights he ignored. More than once while traveling through the cities of his father's kingdom with Princess Helen he allowed himself to be cordially greeted by his highest functionary, but refused point-blank, custom to the contrary notwithstanding, to allow the Mayor to offer his arm to the Crown Princess. The Prince regarded this as his own inalienable right and resented the slighted Mayors never forgive the Prince of Naples and that they bear a grudge still against the King.—Chicago Record Herald.

BRILLIANTS.

He ate and drank the precious words, His spirit grew robust, He knew no more that he was poor, Nor that his frame was dust; He danced along the dingy days, And this bequest of wings— Was but a book! What liberty A loosened spirit brings! —Emily Dickinson.

New spirit yearnings for a heavenlier mood.

Call for a love more pitiful and tender, And 'neath the painter's touch bloom forth The image of transfigured motherhood, All hopes of all glad women who smiled In adoration on their first-born child Here smile through one glad woman made immortal.

All tears of all sad women through whose heart Has pierced the edge of sorrow's seven-fold dart Lie weeping with her at death's dolorous portal. —Anon.

MR. BAILEY'S PURSUIT.

Representative Bailey of Texas, soon to be Senator, walked over from the House a few days ago to take a look at the body of which he is to become a member. Mr. Bailey at once attracted attention. It was not because of his smooth and cherubic face; it was not on account of his long black coat or his unbarbered hair nor his wide expanse of shirt front. All of these things belong to Bailey every day of the week and Sunday, too.

The Bailey's personality was focused in his brilliant necktie, a rich royal

SELF-SUPPORTING WOMEN.

Cannot afford to be sick. So, very often, they struggle along and keep up, where other women go to bed. To such women the value of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is beyond computation. It cures the common cause of ill health in woman, derangement or disease of the woman's organs. A temperance medicine. It contains no alcohol, opium, cocaine or other narcotic.

"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs. L. J. Dennis, of 88 East College street, Jackson, Mo. "For three years I suffered continually. Words cannot express what I suffered. I sought relief among the medical professions and was treated until I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable discharge, and was in the lower part of my bowels, and such distress every month, but now I never have a pain—all my own work and a healthy woman. Thanks to your medicine. I consider myself a living testimonial of the benefits of your Favorite Prescription."

 POLITICAL SITUATION IS FULLY DISCUSSED.

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—With the mention in this correspondence last week of the certainty that California is to be favored with a foreign mission has come a tightening of all the wires that are being pulled by the aspiring candidates, and the contest that is in progress is fast assuming the impulsive phase that has always been in evidence here, of cutting the ground from each other's feet and thereby running the risk that the State will lose the honor altogether. If the political elements will unite or even favor one man it is a sure thing he will get a portfolio, but in California it has always been a case of mixing oil with water whenever aught of that kind has been essayed.

General Barnes' boom is steadily growing now that he is making no bones of the fact that he would like such an appointment, and all the friends old and new of the veteran are hard at work pointing out the special qualifications he possesses for a foreign post. A powerful recruit in his interests is Secretary of State John Hay, for it has been learned that the ex-Ambassador to England has expressed the opinion that Barnes is as well equipped as any man in the country for a diplomatic post abroad. As President McKinley is known to rely a great deal upon Hay's judgment and during his visit here expressed in the course of a private conversation his belief that Hay was the peer of any diplomat in the world, General Barnes can be congratulated upon having secured so powerful an ally.

The De Young end of the proposition is not being overlooked by any means, though. In fact, the proprietor of the Chronicle is more of a central figure than ever in politics just now. The association of his name with the Mayorship of San Francisco was at first received with but little serious attention, for it was not thought that he would consider the place, but as events are developing it looks as if there may be a good deal to all the talk. It is at least significant that he has not denied either officially or by insinuation in the columns of the Chronicle his prospective candidacy, for it is figured that if he were disposed to entertain the proposition at all he would give it a quietus at the onset before any possible complications might arise affecting his other political complications.

It is by no means improbable anyhow that De Young would not object to being Mayor of the city with which his career has been woven. No better answer could ever be given to those who oppose his Senatorial hopes with statements affecting his local reputation than to point to his election to the chief place of municipal honor by the citizens of that very community, and such a happening would most assuredly furnish several stepping-stones to the goal at Washington that he hopes to reach some day. As to his success at the polls, that is scarcely in doubt, for his executive ability and local patriotism are well recognized, and as Phelan is being boomed for a third term, the fight would be all the easier, for the present Mayor has enough enemies in the ranks of his own party to beat him from start to finish.

Of course, if De Young should run for Mayor, that will remove him from the foreign mission sphere and clear the way so completely for Barnes that the doubtful general would surely get the place. Senator Chester Rowell of Fresno thinks otherwise, though, for during the past week he has been telling his friends that no matter what may be said to the contrary, he is right in line for the Japanese mission and is going to get it. His chief, in fact, his only reliance is Senator Bard, and strong though this pull may be in some ways, it looks woefully weak in others. Should Senator Perkins join in the appeal for Rowell he would perhaps land all right, but even though opposition to the Fresno man may mean an unfriendly tilt with Bard, no one can conceive the idea of Perkins making a hurricane fight at the White House in the interests of the man from Fresno.

HOW BARD STANDS.

Conceding, therefore, that Bard will have to bear the brunt of Rowell's fight, the question of what his influence amounts to becomes interesting in view of recent developments. When the President was in California those who conversed with him noted how often he referred to Senator Perkins as an able man and a splendid representative of the people and how little he spoke of Bard. This led to some investigation, and then the milk in the cocoa-nut became readily apparent.

President McKinley's main hobby is the course followed by the Administration in the Philippines. He realized that he was both defying tradition and establishing a new precedent for the Nation, but he was satisfied that he was doing the right thing and he went ahead with all the energy and zeal he possesses. Now, unfortunately for Senator Bard, he entertained views on the subject that were diametrically opposed to those of the Administration, and when the Paris treaty came up in the Senate he voted against it and thereby arrayed himself against the President. It was a declaration of independence and individuality, of course, and Bard gets whatever credits come from such scores, but politically speaking it was a disaster as far as he was personally concerned, for McKinley naturally does not feel any too kindly towards those members of his own party who opposed him upon so momentous an occasion. As between Bard and Perkins, therefore, it is an open secret as to which way the President leans, and pursuing the same lines, it is not likely that McKinley would go out of his way to befriend Bard by sending Rowell to Japan. The same issue, too, will arise in all those instances where the two California Senators differ as regards patronage, for Perkins will not get the worst of it when the fates of any of his men are hanging in the balance. In this connection it may be said that despite the belief that Bard's opposition to John Lynch would be appeased, he has started up a new fight against the Collector and is apparently hopeful of being able to down him for a second term. Those who have got the situation intelligently sized up, though, are satisfied that Lynch is safe, for although the arvil chorus is being played down South as well as in those parts of the State where the Spreckels influence is paramount, Perkins has determined to make the Collector's fight a special one and will not concede an inch of ground regarding him. With the Alameda Senator standing flat footed on the proposition, the opposing elements are wasting their time, for as no reasons other than purely personal ones can be advanced for Lynch's retirement, Perkins does not propose to have his own political fences torn down in that way, especially as the animus against Lynch is simply and solely because he is a Burns' man.

COL. BURNS' RETURN.

Mention of Col. Burns brings to mind that he has started for San Francisco and will be here on the 22d—a week from next Saturday. His coming is looked forward to with considerable interest, for he will undoubtedly take an active part in the framing of the political program as soon as he becomes familiar with the changes that have occurred during his absence.

The Examiner's effort to make it appear that Burns and the Governor are no longer on good terms cannot be entertained, for the basis upon which the assertion is founded is very weak. It may be true that some of the recent gubernatorial appointees cannot be classified as "over friendly to the Burns' interest," but the fact must not be overlooked that it is the Governor's policy at this time to conciliate all factions of the party and he cannot, therefore, dispense all his patronage to one wing of it. That the Burns men have not been left out in the cold, though, can be seen by a glance over the appointments during the present administration, for the Governor has distributed many of his choicest plums in that direction.

Then again Governor Gage would not be very likely to antagonize Colonel Burns if he could help it for no matter what may be said to the contrary the Burns' people control a big percentage of the State machinery. This was evidenced at the legislative elections a year ago for although they came right upon the heels of the bitter personal fight made upon the Colonel, by certain newspapers, candidates who were admittedly his representatives in politics were elected to both Senate and Assembly from many parts of the State. The Governor would certainly therefore be desirous of holding on to so powerful and so friendly an ally, so a large quantity of salt can be taken with the yarns that have been circulated regarding a split at headquarters.

AFTER SCOTT AGAIN.

Senator Davis, of Amador, has been in town during the week endeavoring, it is said, to induce Scott to openly get into the Senatorial fight again. He thinks that the Presidential favor that has been given to Scott's affairs by the recent visit of McKinley will help the shipbuilder's candidacy along, and incidentally his own hopes and ambitions for it by any chance Scott should land the toga Davis would of course be very close to the throne.

It is not considered likely, however, that Scott will get into the fight for in the first place he does not like the idea of running against Perkins and secondly he still has a bad taste in his mouth as a result of his experiences in Sacramento during the extra session. Davis will, in consequence have to build his hopes elsewhere and the Amador Senator is worrying just now as to how he is going to land next year. His return to the State Senate is said to be out of the question, for Frank Solinsky is in the field for the nomination and it looks as if he will capture it almost without effort. The determination of the Burns' people to get even with Davis for the part he played in him out of the convention, for the Republican machine is in good working order in that part of the State and Davis cannot control even one end of it.

He is looking further ahead though than the Senatorship. At one time he considered himself an available candidate for Governor, but he has awakened from that particular dream and has gone into a new track, regarding Congress. The First District is in an unusual condition now for the reapportionment bill has left it without a Congressman, Frank Coombs who represented it under the old lines being switched into the second. Davis therefore thinks that he can mould matters so that he can carry off the Congressional nomination but he has got a merry task ahead, for the same influences that are blocking his path back to the State Senate are being exercised to keep him from Washington.

The result of this anti-Davis movement will be to give Ex-Senator Gillette of Humboldt a good opportunity to carry out his original Congressional plans for although Gillette does not stand any too well with the machine he would nevertheless secure its support if it came to an issue between him and Davis. Altogether therefore it looks as if politics will be extensively lively in the northern end of the State when the battle starts up a few months hence.

HEITMANN IN LUCK.

Ex-Councilman W. D. Heitmann of Oakland landed all right this week in his promised place in the Chinese Bureau. Thanks to Collector Stratton and Senator Perkins. His appointment also gave an opportunity to promote Hugh Dolan of Alameda and Eugene Lynch, so Alameda county has been faring well of late in the Federal service. Collector Stratton is certainly standing in loyalty for his home county for although the patronage at his disposal is extremely limited, owing to the Civil Service restrictions he has succeeded in placing quite a number of Alamedans upon the pay roll.

WHO WILL BE COMMISSIONER?

What the Governor intends doing about the Building and Loan Commission is a problem that is causing considerable speculation just now for although Commissioner Gould's term expired last month nothing official has been done regarding his successor. The various candidates are therefore anxious as to what the outcome will be and very issue of a newspaper is eagerly scanned for there is no telling at what moment the appointment will be announced.

The report that was in circulation a few weeks ago stating that Speaker Pendleton will be the lucky man is no longer entertained for Pendleton denies that he is after the place and says that there was no authority whatever for associating his name with it. Jake Steppacher is discreetly silent when he is questioned as to what his prospects are while Secretary Fields of the Board who is seeking promotion to a Commissionership, shakes his head mournfully when his friends speak to him on the subject. E. Myron Wolf is said to have a splendid chance to carry off the persimmon for his services on the stump during the last campaign entitle him to recognition in addition to which he is able to manipulate in many directions and is working them now for all they are worth. Frank Marston was working around for the job for awhile but he has evidently got a good deal of rest and waste more time on the matter for he has drawn in his horns during the last few days and is letting some one else do the hustling.

HERE AID THERE.

Attorney Jim Copeland, a well known resident of Los Angeles where he has been in active touch with the political doings has moved to San Francisco and will remain here permanently. Governor Gage appointed his wife a Notary Public the other day. Dick Thomas who achieved considerable fame as an orator in the Legislature half a dozen years ago is in town for a few days' stay. He makes his headquarters at Grass Valley nowadays.

Eddie Conroy is summing in Mill Valley. Senator Jack Tyrrel is also over there for a couple of months' vacation.

The Wilman boys who are associated with Charley Lane in his Nome enterprises left for the north this week. Charles McClatchy of the Sacramento Bee was in town for a couple of days en route from Santa Clara where he had been attending the college exercises.

Collector Stratton will leave shortly for a vacation at Santa Monica and other resorts in the southern part of the State.

HATTON.

WILL TRY AND HELP THE RUSSIAN REFUGEES.

M. H. Coffee, who is greatly interested in the move in behalf of the settlement of Russian refugees in various parts of the Continent of America, sends the following notice to this paper regarding a meeting on that subject which was to be held in the Synagogue:

"As permission to make use of the vestry room of the Synagogue has been withdrawn, the meeting of the Hebrews of Zion will take place as advertised Sunday, June 9th, at 7:30 p. m. in the Hall of American Foresters, corner of Thirteenth and Clay streets. All are invited. Dr. M. Levy and Dr. M. Meyer will speak.

Why Brown Ones Come on Faces.

When a woman can get rid of brown patches on her face by changing her diet it is worth while for other women who care for their complexions to know something of the method.

A lady in Michigan City, Ind., who does not want her name mentioned, says that coffee caused the brown patches on her face by first giving her stomach trouble, then putting her nerves out of order, and the result was shown in her complexion.

She quite coffee and began using Postum Food Coffee and in less than a month the stomach trouble disappeared and within two months her complexion cleared up and is now fine and rosy.

She speaks of a Mr. Knight and Gideon Hunt, of Westfield, Ind., who have both been improved in health by leaving off coffee, also a Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Stanley, of the same place, who were in poor health and suffered from stomach trouble. They quit coffee and after using Postum a short time the result was natural sleep, a return of appetite, and a gain in strength as fast as nature will rebuild.

She gives the names of a number of other persons who have been helped by leaving off coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee.

It is a safe proposition that if any coffee user has stomach or nervous trouble, her complexion is soiled, or she can get rid of the trouble by discontinuing coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee. It is easy enough to prove the truth of this by making trial. Every first-class grocer sells Postum.

FUNERAL OF COL. MICHLER.

Very Large and Distinguished Attendance at St. John's Church, Washington.

TEMPORARY INTERMENT IN ARLINGTON CEMETERY.

Tender Tribute to a Gallant Soldier by Lieutenant-General Miles.

The telegraph of a few days ago brought the sad tidings of the untimely death in Washington of Lieutenant Colonel Michler, military secretary to Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, U. S. A.

The information caused a great deal of pain to many friends of the deceased, and he was remembered for some years at the President's table, because of his untimely death, and because, also, of the sorrow which it was known his death would occasion Mrs. S. H. Michler, the mother of the deceased, who is still and has been for many years a resident of Oakland.

THE FUNERAL.

The funeral of the deceased took place in Washington several days ago, and in recording and commenting upon the fact the "Star" of that city spoke as follows: "Funeral services over the body of the late Lieutenant Colonel Francis Michler, U. S. A., military secretary to the Lieutenant General of the army, were conducted at St. John's Church, Washington, D. C., on Friday, June 7, by the Rev. Dr. J. M. Mackay Smith in St. John's Church.

"The popularity in which the dead officer was held by those in the military service of the Government and the esteem felt for him in private life were attested by the distinguished gathering that assembled in the venerable edifice.

"They were illustrated also in the numerous and exquisite floral offerings. The remains, in a flag covered casket, covered with a magnificent wreath of ivy leaves and purple orchids and another immense wreath of lilacs of the valley and red roses, were brought to the church on a flag-draped caisson of the Second Artillery, with a detachment of eight non-commissioned officers as body bearers. The remainder of Battery F of the Artillery was drawn up on Vermont avenue and Troop H of the Fifth Cavalry Cavalry ranged in the along H street.

THE SERVICES.

"During the impressive services the men's choir sang 'Lead, Kindly Light,' and 'Abide With Me.' When the casket was being replaced upon the caisson in the presence of a bare-headed throng, the sun momentarily shone out and decked flags and flowers alike with brilliancy. At this moment the full United States Marine Band, under Lieutenant Samuelman's direction, softly played 'Nearer, My God, to Thee.'

"In accordance with the usual custom the late officer's horse, with boots reversed in the stirrups, followed the casket to the cemetery.

LT. GEN. MILES A MOURNER.

"Among those who attended were Lieutenant General Miles, in full dress uniform; Mrs. Miles, their daughter, Mrs. Michler, and their young son. There was a representative presence of army and navy and people prominent in society. The military attaches of the various embassies and legations at present in Washington also attended, and Lieutenant Colonel Kilson of the British Embassy were the guests of the English officer. The body was escorted to Arlington by the military band named, headed by the Marine Band, and was there placed in a vault pending the arrival of the dead officer's brother from Europe. The plot near the grave of General Crook, the famous Indian fighter, with whom Colonel Michler served with distinction in several campaigns.

MILES' TRIBUTE.

"In speaking of the death of Lieutenant Colonel Michler, Lieutenant General Miles said this morning: "He was one of the finest officers in the service, and his loss will affect the entire army. He was a soldier and a gentleman and there is nothing good that I could not honestly say about him. He had been my aide and military secretary for many years, and he daily showed his splendid efficiency. His talents were not confined to office work, however, as he was an admirable military record. He showed his bravery as an Indian fighter and was twice commended for gallantry in action. He came of a family of fighters, his father, General Michler, being a renowned officer in the Engineer Corps.

"He had only been married about a year, and the sympathy of the whole War Department is with his young wife. She was Miss Marion Lowry, and is today little more than a bride. Colonel Michler has been suffering from Bright's disease for many years, but he never gave up and never complained. He was a model army officer, and I cannot tell you how deeply his loss affects me. We were always warm personal friends."

PROPERTY DISPUTE IS SETTLED IN COURT.

The contest between Mrs. May E. Kraft and August H. Kraft of Alameda for the $1,200 estate of their late son, Henry A. Kraft, was settled before Judge Green. Kraft had already made an assignment of his interest to William Breckenfelder. Mrs. Kraft will pay to her ex-husband $130.45. Of this sum Kraft agrees to pay Breckenfelder $30.45 for his claim. The sum of $50 is to be paid to his attorneys, J. E. McElrath and J. F. Street. Mrs. Kraft is also to receive $150.45 from the son's estate. The remainder is to be divided between two other minor children, Philip C. and Herman F. Kraft. The Krafts were divorced about a week ago, Mrs. Kraft being granted a decree on the ground of habitual intemperance and extreme cruelty.

PLUNKETT-COBLEDDICK.

Last Wednesday night, the marriage of Miss Frances Cobledick and James A. Plunkett took place in the Eighth avenue Methodist Church. It was performed by the Rev. William Carson Shaw, pastor of the Episcopal Church of the Advent in East Oakland. The church was decorated in pink and green.

The bride is a beautiful brunette. She was attired in a gown of exquisite white satin, trimmed with pleatings of white chiffon. Embroidered chiffon formed the yoke and ornaments of the corsage. The long tulle veil was held in place with orange blossoms and the bouquet was bride roses. The only jewel worn by the bride was a beautiful pin of pearls and diamonds, the gift of the groom. Miss Emeline Cobledick, the bride's sister, was maid of honor, and was attired in pink organdy over pink satin and carried a bouquet of maiden-hair fern. The bridesmaids, Miss Evelyn Le Noir and Miss Mabel Howland, each wore gowns of green organza over green silk and carried La France roses.

Mrs. McMenamin was best man, and the ushers were Walter H. Conick, Augustus Kempke, Thomas Carpenter and William Gange.

During the ceremony Mrs. Minnie Kempke Henderson sang "Call Me Thine Own," and Miss Anna Parks rendered the march from "Lohengrin" while the bride party entered the church and Mendelssohn's wedding march as they took their departure.

The honeymoon will be spent in Lake county, after which Dr. Plunkett will bring his bride to the home he has prepared for her at 552 East Twelfth street.

NEW STARS WILL SOON SHINE.

Police Commissioners Will Soon Have Eight Positions To Fill.

HALL B. RAND NOT FORCED TO RETIRE.

Policemen Layton and Woods Will Be Next to Get the Ax.

Commenting on a false impression created through a report in a San Francisco paper to the effect that Policeman H. B. Rand was practically requested to file his application for retirement from the Police Department, Police Commissioner Johnson said this morning:

"There is absolutely no foundation for the report. The Commissioners have never discussed Rand's case further than that it was agreed that Mr. Rand was giving perfect satisfaction notwithstanding his age and that it was concluded not to disturb him in his position. Mr. Rand's request to be retired July 1st on half pay came wholly unsolicited."

As to other changes in the Police Department, the Commissioners are very silent just now. But rumor has it that by the time the Commissioners hold their first meeting in July there will be eight vacant places to fill.

Thos. Pardee, Wm. Kinley, Wm. Kingsbury have been dismissed; H. B. Rand retired; J. B. Langworthy has resigned; Wm. H. McClellan will be tried next week, and rumor is cruel enough to say that the other two to retire are Policemen Layton and Woods.

As to the latter two, however, no confirmation could be obtained from any of the Commissioners.

TOM HAD A FUNERAL.

AND THE FUNERAL HAD SOME UNIQUE FEATURES.

At Least They Appeared Unique to the Strangers Who Were Present and Were Not Quite Used to the Ways of Tom's Widow.

After dinner as we sat on the veranda of the hotel an old man came up the steps from the street and said: "Gentlemen, mebbe you'd like to walk up the street a few rods and show up at Tom Jackson's funeral. I've sent up the road for a preacher, and his wife has combed her hair and put on her shoes, and if you'll drop in for half an hour it'll be givin the show a good send-off."

There were four of us, all strangers to the little town, and as we had nothing to do that afternoon we decided to go. We therefore followed the old man up the street to a shabby old cabin and were met at the door by a middle aged, slatternly woman, who said: "It's powerful kind of you to drop in. Take cheers and squat."

In a few minutes the preacher arrived. There were about ten of us in the room altogether, while a cart waited at the gate to convey the body to its last resting place. Pretty soon the preacher stood up, cleared his throat and began:

"Another member of our circle has fallen by the wayside in the journey of life."

"Scuse me, elder," observed the wife, "but you've hit it dead wrong right at the start. Tom didn't do no fallin down as we know of. He was taken with a chill along in the night."

"In the midst of life we are in death," continued the preacher after a painful pause. "We know not what a day may bring forth. We cometh up as a flower and are cut down. We—"

"Tom was no flower," said the wife as she shook the folds out of her bandanna. "If that was any man in this yere county who could lay him on his back, I'd like to see him."

"The deceased had his faults and his virtues, the same as the rest of us," remarked the good man as he shifted about uneasily.

"Yes, that was Tom to a dot," put in the wife. "If he found a stray hog in the woods, that hog was his meat, but he was so kind hearted he'd gin away his last claw of turberker."

"The deceased was not a professed Christian, as I understand it, but believed in a hereafter just the same. He believed—"

"Hold on, elder," interrupted the wife; "let's keep in the road as we move along. Tom didn't hev nothin ag'in churches, 'cept he thought the singin and prayin skeered game away. He didn't go shucks on no hereafter, however. He thought a feller who was bo'n and raised around yere and had plenty to eat and drink all the time would be a blamed hog to want to go to heaven afterword. Tom Jackson was no hog."

"We must not judge him too harshly," continued the elder, much put out, but feeling that he couldn't cut it off too short before strangers. "As I take it, every man is guided by his own conscience. He does what he thinks is for the best. For instance—"

"Scuse me, Elder Rider, but that was no for instance about Tom Jackson," interrupted the wife again. "He was just a plain, everyday man and no scollard. You are dead right about the conscience, though. That's what guided Tom. If he took a bushel of co'a mo' than was actually needed, he was troubled in his mind and would grunt out in his sleep. Anything else on your mind, elder?"

"No, not as I know of," he stammered as he looked around.

"Waal, I reckon you've hit the mark high 'nuff. Tom was no talker hisself, and he didn't keer to be around where folks was blabbin. If you want to pray, elder, drive ahead, but don't spin it out."

"I kin skip that," he replied. "All right. We'll tote the body out to the cart. Strangers, will you tote?"

We lifted up the coffin and carried it out to the cart, and the widow mounted up beside it and said:

"Thankee, strangers, and you needn't bother no mo'. I'm suah it was powerful kind of you. Be mighty keeful 'bout holes and rocks, Jim, fur Tom did despise to be joggled and bumped about."

Three hours later I passed the cabin, and the woman sat on the doorstep using a spuff stick. I lifted my hat in salutation, and she waved her hand and said:

"Kivered up in good shape, and I'm much obliged to you uns fur drappin in."

No Reciprocity.

"That Mrs. Simpkins didn't return my call."

"Well, that's no matter."

"No matter? She lives in the suburbs, and I spent 25 cents getting out there."—Indianapolis Journal.

BETTER.

Yet, when I reflect a moment I cannot but see that the world is necessarily better.

For now, when I meet a man smoking, I can always direct his attention to a building at least twenty stories high, reminding him that he might own this had he saved all the money he has spent for tobacco.

Mr. Morosco went for the children with his ponies and took them at once to his "Geranium Place," where they were royally entertained. A fine dinner was served and candy was dispensed in large quantities. After dinner the children were given their freedom of the place. They amused themselves by riding on the ponies and playing on the beautiful lawns. The affair is one which will long be remembered by the happy children.

HAY PLENTIFUL AT DECOTO.

Rust on Oats Dampens Ardor of Some of the Washing-ton Farmers.

DECOTO, June 8.—The Alvarado sugar mill is preparing for a big crop this season by adding to its shed and warehouse room and making other necessary improvements that will require a force of carpenters all summer to complete. A cattle shed 500 feet long, which will accommodate 200 head of cattle, is being built. The beet pulp which is left after the sugar has been extracted, is used to feed stock, and there is so much of it during a season's run that some means had to be adopted to get rid of it, so a shed for cattle is being built and stock will be bought by the mill people and fed upon it.

VISITORS AT MASONIC HOME.

About fifty members of a Mission Lodge of San Francisco, came out from San Francisco Sunday and spent a part of the day at the Masonic Home. They lunched at the home as guests of the trustees and the superintendent, Dr. Aiken and his wife. The visitors came on a special car.

HOLY GHOST AT PLEASANTON.

About seventy Portuguese residents of this neighborhood went to Pleasanton on the train Sunday to participate in the Holy Ghost festivities at that place. Nearly as many more drove over.

HAYING HAS COMMENCED.

Haying is being carried on in earnest in this vicinity, the hot weather was experiencing being excellent for this industry. The people will surely have enough hay of their own this year without importing from other localities.

SHIPPING GOOSEBERRIES.

John Carr is shipping gooseberries to the San Francisco market. He has a fair crop and is receiving a good price. His crop of currants is almost a total failure, owing to the frost nipping them when they were young.

REPAIRING WAREHOUSE.

Ed Sals is having his grain warehouse repaired. A car of lumber has arrived with which to make the necessary improvements. The house will also be whitewashed.

RAILROAD PRECAUTIONS.

The railroad people have notified their tenants who have a hay crop along the road on the right-of-way to cut their crop and haul it away in the next few days, so that the danger of fire set by their engines will be lessened.

LADIES' GUILD MEETS.

The Decoto Ladies' Guild met Wednesday at the home of J. H. Hays. The members had quite a lot of sewing on hand, which they were very anxious to finish before they took their summer vacation.

RUST ON OATS.

Just as farmers thought everything was coming their way, along comes a damper in the shape of rust, which is quite thick on nearly all the oat crop. Some of those who have this kind of grain will now cut for hay instead of cutting and threshing for grain.

BRIDGE OR CULVERT?

Roadmaster Meyers is laboring with the Board of Supervisors to get either a bridge or a culvert put in across the creek which runs through Ed Whipple's place about half a mile from town. Supervisors are favorable to the idea, but when the matter came before the Board Monday it was laid over until the next meeting for further investigation.

Meyers says that there is no doubt that some kind of a bridge will be put in, probably a wooden one, which could be built for $300. A culvert made too small would be worse than having no at all, for the overflow would do a great deal of damage and involve the county in a law suit.

FINISHED PICKING PEAS.

Joe "W." Smith has finished picking the thirty acres of peas on the C. C. Craue place. The yield from the piece was something like thirty-three tons.

NOTES.

The public schools closed yesterday. H. A. Starks of San Francisco was the guest of D. J. Kelly Saturday.

Mrs. Dr. Aiken, Mrs. C. Cram and Mrs. P. Meyers attended the Clisby-Alard wedding in Oakland Wednesday.

The assistant station agent spent Saturday at his home in Danville.

NEW CARS ON THE HAYWARDS CAR LINE.

ELMHURST, June 8.—About the first of the week N. P. Akerberg will move his blacksmith shop to its new quarters. The building is almost completed.

Yesterday J. B. Ayers, who has resided in this city for some time, moved with his family to Oakland. Mr. Ayers has been in the shoe business here for the past two years and leaves many friends.

Tomorrow the two new cars which have been lying in the car barn for several weeks will be put in service, the trucks having arrived only a few days ago and are now being put on the cars. The cars are fine new ones and will be used only on the Sunday run for some time.

HAYWARDS BOY IS CRUSHED BY WAGON.

HAYWARDS, June 8.—Homer Fish, 9 years old, son of Edwin Fish, was crushed by the wheels of the heavy rock wagon passing over his chest yesterday afternoon. The boy was playing on the team, which was a "trailer" behind another loaded wagon. The accident was unobserved, the injured boy lying for a couple of hours in the road before he was found and taken home. Dr. Browning attended the lad, whose chances for recovery are fair.

FAKE JEWELRY
AT MT. EDEN.

How Unscrupulous Men Impose on the School Children of Eden Township.

MT. EDEN, June 8.—Mrs. Story of Santa Rosa visited her sister, Mrs. H. J. Mohr, last week.

The Mt. Eden School closed last Friday after a very successful term under the direction of Mr. Swafford and Miss Bertram.

Miss Grace Clawiter is making an extended visit to her grandmother, Mrs. Clawiter, in Alameda.

Wesley Moore, with some San Francisco friends, left Wednesday for a few weeks' camping trip to Boulder Creek.

BUYS A RANCH.

Mr. Rippe has purchased a ranch near San Lorenzo and will take possession on the first of October. He has been a resident of Mt. Eden for many years, and his neighbors regret his departure from them, but all are pleased over his good fortune in securing a ranch of his own.

KENNELS.

The Glen-Ada Kennels of Mt. Eden boasts of some bird dogs as fine as are in the State or in any other States. The owner, Wm. Gail, has received medals from the San Francisco kennel clubs as premiums at the show last month. He had three dogs on exhibition and carried off three prizes. He is contemplating sending his dogs last to compete in contests in that section of the country, and if this plan is carried out he will be flooded with communications from that part of the world.

OIL BURNER.

The San Lorenzo Water Company is preparing to put an oil burner in their engine at their plant near Mt. Eden. A large tank has arrived and will be placed on the ground for the storage of oil.

FAKE JEWELRY.

Several small school girls have, in the past month received from Eastern jewelry firms packages of jewelry such as stick pins and beauty pins, each package containing a dozen or more of these articles. With these packages comes a letter requesting that the articles be sold for 10c each. For their trouble the girls are requested to select a premium and when the money is sent them they will forward the premiums by return mail.

Several girls have disposed of their packages to residents of this vicinity, because, for the small sum of ten cents people did not wish to turn these children away, although the jewelry was practically worth less. But when the children received the second package the stuff was returned. This is an unfair way of taking advantage of our young people, but the place being flooded with jewelry at this time would indicate that these firms were aware of the advantage taken of our people by the fake show which visited this place a few months ago and which disposed of natural scented beans, etc., and concluded this was a good place in which to unload cheap jewelry.

her day and was telling him of her experience on his farm. One of his employees was a German. He was a hard working, honest and conscientious man, and married. His wife was taken sick and finally died, the husband, of course, leaving his work for several days in attendance. Two weeks later he appeared at a house of his employer and asked to be relieved from the work for a couple of days, then the following conversation took place:

"I would like to get off for about two days."

"I can't spare you unless it is absolutely necessary. You know you lost several days last week, and we are depending on you in the work. What is the reason for your getting off?" inquired the employer.

"Well, I was to be married."

"Why, Fritz, your wife died only two weeks ago, and we are depending on you again. I do not understand you."

"Well," replied the German, "I don't like to split logs."
